At a Second Glance,

Seen at the first glance—a cheering mass of humanity; at a second, deeper, more revealing look—the shining eyes and throbbing heart of an excited teenager. It is this second glance—the one that magnifies and penetrates—that we at Warwick are concerned with. It is this second look which reveals the "individual" . . . the searching . . . the understanding . . . the disappointment . . . the failure . . . and the moments of achievement.

The second look is perceptive. It captures the past memories—orientation day . . . our new principal, Mr. Caywood . . . Anne Rodriguez . . . 598 eighth graders . . . senior lunch line . . . victories over rivals, Hampton and Newport News . . . straw hats and blue jeans . . . the faculty act at the Variety Show . . . a Homecoming tie game with York . . . cheerleaders . . . "Death Takes A Holiday" . . . SAT exams . . . the tied powderpuff game . . . Christmas assembly . . . committee and club meetings . . . Miss Warwick High . . . the crowded gym for our first basketball game with Suffolk . . . picnics at Burger Chef . . . school dances . . . semester exams with a new schedule . . . the WGH current events scholarship contest . . . awards assembly . . . senior pictures . . . plans for graduation . . . posters and campaign buttons for class and SCA elections . . . maroon and gold . . . prom decorations and preparations . . . a halt of activities and an attempt at finals . . . and at long last—that circled date on the calendar . . . Graduation! These are the second looks that make Warwick High School what it is.

We are offering an invitation—turn the pages of The Warwick for your first glance, but, then, turn them again and again for a second glance—that penetrating look at the Warwick High School of 1965.

School Spirit, Devotion Earn Team Dedication

At first glance, a team of teachers—instructing students at Warwick High, but at a second glance a truer and remarkably human picture is revealed. This picture has a personality made up of an infinite number of specific emotions . . . strong personal contact with each student, giving encouragement and instilling confidence . . . a spirit of fun where laughter is so contagious that everyone around is affected . . . and yet an image is still maintained which commands the respect of both the students and the faculty members.

This team is an extraordinary example of interest and school spirit, but with two sides . . .

On one side is the history teacher, instilling each student with a love for his country and the coach, giving the extra pat on the back that speaks of a special communication with each boy.

On the other side is the devoted English teacher, opening new worlds of appreciation for her students and the sponsor, advising students through the Honor Council and the Future Teachers of America.

A two sided example of the spirit of Warwick, complete, yet divided and individual . . .

For these human elements of friendliness, devotion, respect, and participation, we proudly dedicate the 1965 Warwick to Coach and Mrs. Guy Quesenberry.

. . . opening new worlds of appreciation . . .

bottom: . . . instilling each student . . .

Faculty

At a first glance we see a teacher, teaching. We know she receives approximately $3.00 per teaching hour, but the question is—"What does she give?" At a second glance we see Coach Thompson enthusiastically explaining a new play, Col. Archibald giving up his evenings to help clean up the cafeteria after a Senior Class dance, Mr. Kennedy setting up a Chemistry experiment, Coach Secules giving half-time encouragement, Mr. Tew demonstrating a procedure for better voice control, and Mr. Burnett showing us a yawn of absolute exhaustion.

Caywood Meets Challenge Of First Year at Warwick

Mr. Caywood approves the menu for next week.

Last summer, long before the students of Warwick ever thought of returning to school, Mr. John Caywood, our new principal, was working diligently with Mr. Richards, last year's principal, to learn about and set up the 1964-65 school term.

Mr. Caywood was graduated from Lincoln Memorial University and obtained his masters degree at the University of Virginia. He taught such subjects as Mathematics and Physics, but after two years of teaching and six years as an assistant principal, he advanced to the position of principal at Battle Hill High School. From Battle Hill, Mr. Caywood entered Warwick where this past year he executed the duties of supervision and decision making.

Mrs. Kostyal, assistant principal for the past four years, had spent a total of eighteen years at Warwick. She was graduated from Marshall University and obtained her masters at West Virginia University. In the past Mrs. Kostyal taught such courses as Typing, Bookkeeping, and Shorthand.

Mr. Formichelli received his masters degree from the College of William and Mary after doing under-graduate work at Sheppard College. He had been at Warwick for eighteen years, serving as assistant principal for the last four of these. Previously, he taught Biology and Physical Education.

Right: "How do you spell, 'dismissed'?"

WHS Office Staff Maintains Efficiency, School Harmony

"Let's see, how do you spell does—doez? Duz? Duze?"

"I'd like to see my daughter, Mary Motley, for a few minutes." This request for a daughter was not infrequent in the daily struggle for existence which went on in the office. In the first step toward finding this student a search through the enormous schedule book was attempted by Mrs. Bruner. "But she's not here!"

"She has to be," said Mrs. Leviner. Chewing on the end of her pencil, she pushed Mr. Caywood aside and began flipping through the pages. Unable to find the phantom student, the office staff went into a normal, frantic turmoil. Mrs. Lundeen started looking under piles of college transcripts and daily bulletins. Mrs. Bruner tried the mountainous absentee lists, while Mrs. Hamlett, after pushing aside handfuls of money, pushed the intercom button for the IBM room.

"Mrs. Edwards, do you have any idea who and where Mary Motley is?"

And so the search for Mary Motley began in the IBM room where grade cards, schedules and absentees were checked. However, with no result—Mary Motley was lost. Mrs. Edwards pushed the intercom button and referred the sad news back to the office staff who in turn informed the irate father that his "darling" daughter was lost to Warwick High School.

"Warwick High," groaned the pooped pappy, "but my daughter goes to Ferguson."

Warwick's business tycoons were Mrs. Hamlett, Mrs. Lundeen, Mrs. Bruner, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Leviner.

"It says here that they just increased my allowance!"

Guidance Staff Helps Choose Careers, Pick College

Mrs. Muire and Mr. Fleet meet the same problem: A student, majoring in math, taking art, drama, shop, music, physical education, and study hall!

At one end of Warwick High School there was a small office, seemingly unimportant, with the word "guidance" printed overhead. In reality, the importance of the six counselors who constituted the guidance staff was immeasurable. Every facet of school life was reflected within the walls of the guidance office. Each student's personal problems were considered. Because of the strangeness of a new school and the questions which naturally arise, the eighth grade class had two assistants—Miss Mason and Mr. D'Amelio. Any problems baffling to freshmen and sophomores were ably attended to by Mrs. Muire and Mrs. Palmer, respectively. Juniors facing the problems of college entrance were counseled by Mr. Fleet. Lastly, the seniors sought Miss Atkinson, head of the department, for any assistance in the many difficulties facing upcoming graduates. The overall duties of these counselors included working on state-wide tests and locating any general information concerning student life desired by teachers.

"It says here that he made 903 on his college boards?"

Academics

At a first glance we see a student, studying. We know she goes to school five days a week and has six classes a day. The question is—"What does she learn?" At a second glance we see Pedro Fernandez, an Art student, learning to weave on a loom; Dickie Brushwood and Pat Banks, office assistants, working on the IBM machines; John Allen, a Genetics student, preparing media for his fruit flies; and Billy Dunn, a Physics student, studying kinematics.

English Department Stresses Correctness and Composition

"Is this a dagger I see before me?"

More than likely it's a Senior literature book, yellowed with age and covered with penciled notes. This year in the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Classes more emphasis was placed on the finer and more intricate aspects of writing and speaking, rather than instruction in the fundamentals of grammar and mechanical correctness supposedly learned in the earlier grades.

One may also have heard other quotes and lines from literature such as "a gliding great demon on the seas of life"—referring to none other than Moby Pickle, or "Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look"—more than likely a product of fourth period English!

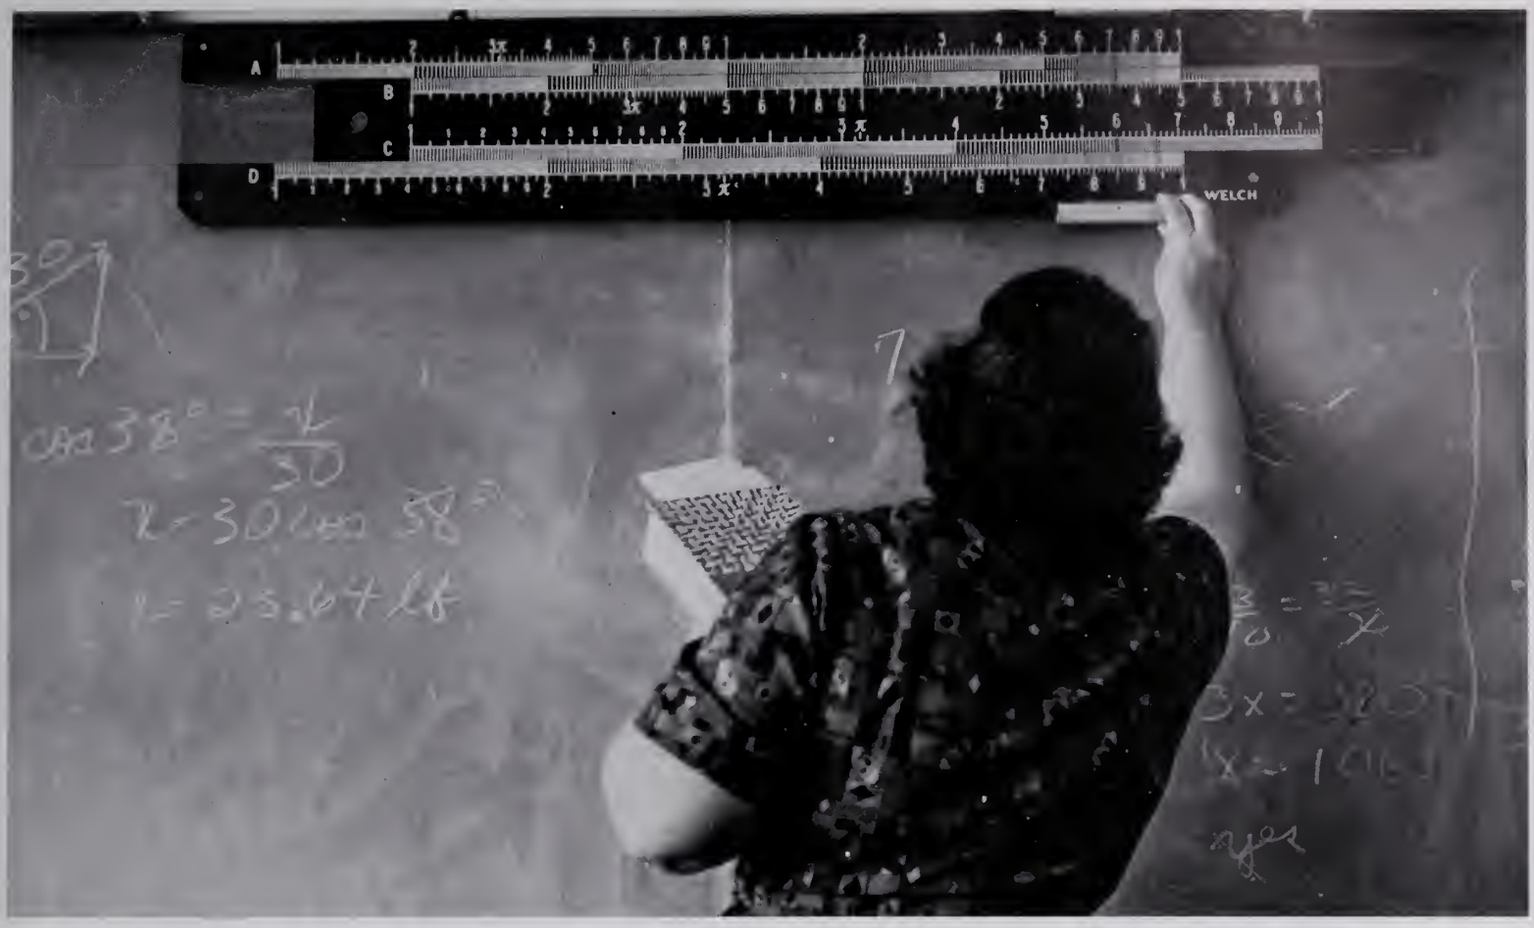
In the lower grades, however, English grammar received the major emphasis with an effort to improve instruction through a concentrated course in English grammar and composition presented during the first semester and completed by a course in literature and composition the second semester. "By concentrating on the mastery of the fundamentals in English," said Mrs. Taylor, "teachers hope to turn out students from the eighth and ninth grades who can both speak and write their language with reasonable correctness."

During the second semester, when the eighth and ninth graders were introduced to high school literature, they likely met such classical friends as Great Expectations, The Prince and the Pauper, as well as various forms of Greek Mythology.

Journalism students eagerly read about Dick Tracy, an essential part of a newspaper.

Christine Carney: "Well, uh, I read this book . . . about this little girl . . . and, uh, she met this wolf . . ."

"Now your question was, if the singular of mice is mouse, why isn't the singular of dice douse?"



"I'm sure a circle has corners . . . just let me work it out on my trusty slide rule."

Students Improve Reasoning Through New Math

"Get out a sheet of paper, please . . . " Another of Mrs. Bright's well-known Trig tests, no doubt, or one of Colonel's Geometry tests, or maybe one of Mrs. Hazelwood's Algebra quizzes. Whether it was Trig or General Math, freshmen and seniors alike found that mathematics was simply one problem on top of another, from one plus one to solving quadratic equations. Besides general math, more and more eighth graders attempted first year Algebra, which dealt with standard Algebra principles. Students who managed to survive moved on to Geometry. The department offered plain, solid, and co-ordinate Geometry in a single year. Second year Algebra and Trigonometry were the next rungs on the mathematical ladder. This year, for the very brave, Advanced High School Mathematics was offered. Students who planned a career in engineering or other vocations which required a mathematical background found the courses offered a great help in advancing toward their planned goals. By the end of the year, each student was familiar with the new concepts, proving the Math Department to be an extremely valuable part of Warwick's curriculum. As for those tests, well, maybe they'll be easier next year.

"Now let me think . . . a four sided triangle."

"Mr. Kennedy, my fruit fly has one red eye and one white eye, stripes, six legs, and only one wing."

Our industrious senior Genetics student may have gotten his breeding jars mixed up with a few spiders and bumble bees, but we knew that his end results couldn't be any more disastrous than last year's five pound fruit flies.

The underclass Science courses this year may not have been as productive, but the knowledge they gained from such introductory courses as Physics, Chemistry, Earth-Space, and Biology did much toward increasing their enthusiasm in the field of Science.

The department received a number of reference books for classroom use which, coupled with experimental projects and laboratory work, modernized the program.

Besides the addition of books, the Science Department received such new equipment as oil emersion microscopes, making greater magnification possible, stereo microscopes, which because of their two viewers were especially valuable in viewing living organisms, and incubators which were used in rearing bacteria and hatching eggs.

Also on the list of new equipment were two classrooms of badly needed tables and chairs, which, however, were going to waste in Mr. Howell's room as everytime we walked in we found all his poor, gullible eighth graders standing in one corner of the classroom, hands clasped together and held in the air as Mr. Howell, looking very smug and evil, pulled the lever of an electric generator and sent all the students screaming about the room as a result of the electrical shock.

Science Shocks Students With New Phenomena

Social Studies Stresses Politics in Election Year

The Social Studies Department, in the past very controversial election year, was probably one of the liveliest sections of all. The frequent cries of "LBJ for the USA" and "Goldwater" became more heated as the election approached. Because of the mtense student interest at Warwick, political rallies, public survey polls, assemblies, meetings, and mock elections were participated in with enthusiasm.

It seemed the students had firm opinions on the candidates they were supporting, so, instead, the classroom discussion often revolved around guessing what party and candidates one's teacher preferred.

However, when the day after the election rolled around, it wasn't hard to tell those who had picked the winning ticket from those who hadn't.

Besides the election and current events issues, chapters and assignments in Government, Sociology, History, World Geography, and World History were occasionally covered. As Mr. Luck would say—"Well, class, you didn't accomplish much today, did you!"

Besides the previously mentioned subjects, a new course, Modern European History, was introduced in the Social Studies Department. This new study was an elective course which more effectively prepared a student for college, and provided for a better understanding and appreciation of today's European problems. The new textbook used for this additional course was History of the Modern World by Palmer and Colt. In the way of new equipment, the Social Studies Department received a new atlas for use in the World Geography classes and new maps for use in the Modern European History class.

"Now let me get this straight . . . General Washington was on our side."

Foreign Languages Prove Confusing, but Beneficial

Whether it was the conjugation of irregular verbs, the seemingly ridiculous word order, or the confusing masculine and feminine gender of nouns, language students were continually remarking "mais je ne comprend pas" or the Spanish, German, or Latin equivalent of "I don't get it!"

However, with the various techniques employed by the language teachers, Mrs. Curtis, Miss Hundley, Mrs. Deskin and Mrs. Walsh, some of the students were invariably tricked into giving the correct answer. "The objective of the Language Department," says Mrs. Curtis, "was to train students to understand, speak, read, and write with special emphasis placed on lingual skills in the beginning classes and the study of literature in the more advanced." Most of us would have been happy if we could master completely just one phase of our elected language.

Through the use of such equipment as the language laboratory, portable tape recorders, phonographs, and movie and slide projectors, classes succeeded in improving their skills, such as how to say, "Entschuldigen Sie, Mir bitte!" without giving away the fact that there was a large piece of chewing gum under their tongue.

Another phase of language proficiency was that of studying the culture and civilization of the various foreign countries.

If you happened to notice any of the paperback books, Les Miserables, Don Juan, or Julius Caesar floating around the school this year, it was because the outside reading in the language courses became a major part of the program. Oh yes, and by the way, please return them. Many of this year's students will be needing them next year!

"Calling all cars, calling all cars . . ."

"How do you speak French in Braille?"

I came, I saw, I flunked.

"I'll let you have this Beatle book if you give me back my Goldwater button."

D.E. Students Train the Brain, and Earn as They Learn

"A job selling bathroom accessories! Who wants a discount on shower curtains?"

A logical question for a student of Distributive Education, a course which enabled many students to secure jobs that will benefit them during and after high school. The variety of work anticipated in was great with such businesses as automotive dealers, apparel outlets, department, drug, food, and furniture stores, and personal services.

When the students were not out making money hand over fist, they spent their time studying the qualities necessary in an expanding business world. Good grooming, job interview techniques, salesmanship, advertising, income tax preparation, and human relations couldn't help but form a well-rounded and pleasing personality.

This year Warwick was one of the few schools in the state to offer Preparatory Distributive Education, which was a course for tenth graders in which they worked on various projects but did not obtain the actual on-the-job training.

As an example of the money earned during the month of September, these fortunate students, working through D.E., took in a total of $2,225.00. This was an average hourly wage of $1.15.

Because a job often caused a student to miss out on much of high school's social life, the Distributive Education Club, a brance of the D.E. Department, tried to be a social as well as a functional organization. The club participated in many contests and state and local conferences.

It is easily seen that the D.E.'s primary purpose of creating and developing future leaders for the fields of marketing and distribution was more than fulfilled in 1964-65.

Business Classes Strive to Achieve Excellence in Technique

"Forty-five words on a minute timing—that's great!"

"Yes, but I have fourteen mistakes and one strike-over!"

Well, it's been said that mistakes are the inspiration for ambitions, and this was certainly the case in the courses of Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Record Keeping, General Business, and Vocational Office Training.

The Business Department was well equipped with the latest machines for progressive work experience which, we hoped, enabled graduates to gain full-time employment in the business world and possibly to marry the boss' son.

The Business Department was actually divided into two groups —those taking courses such as Typing for their own personal use, and those participating in Vocational Office Training, better known as V.O.T.

This latter group began with General Business in the tenth grade and followed this course with two years of Typing, one of Shorthand, and two of Bookkeeping. In these more advanced classes, the students worked with adding machines, rotary calculators, posting machines, spirit duplicators, and transcription machines. All of the machines were typical of those found in the local businesses in which fourteen Warwick students work part time through V.O.T.

Does it take a short hand to do shorthand?

"Now is the time for all . . ."

"Wonder what would happen if I used a bigger hammer?"

"Look what we have here—a bird's egg!"

Industrial Courses Provide Training, Work Experience

The Industrial Education Department, formerly the Industrial Arts Department, experienced many changes besides that of its name.

Some of these changes concerned the department's addition of a few new "nuts" and "bolts" in the way of teachers. Teaching metal work and woodwork were Mr. J. R. Gregg and Mr. G. R. Greer, respectively, while Mr. W. E. Jones finished another year as drafting instructor and department head. Continuing as electricity and electronic instructor was Mr. C. A. Brown, under whose guidance electricity was introduced for the first time into the General Shop program for 8th graders. The course was designed primarily for exploration of electricity and its relationship in everyday living with emphasis placed on safe working habits and procedures.

Also under the operation of the Industrial Education Department was the I.C.T. (Industrial Co-operative Training) program which enabled students to combine education with actual work experience resulting in vocational training opportunities invaluable to success after high school.

In the way of projects the architectual section of drafting tried a new innovation with Ken Cooke's scaled model of an actual two-story house. The completed project was used as a visual aid for improving learning conditions in the classes. Besides benefitting the classes, the Industrial Education Department undertook projects which aided the individual classrooms and the school as a whole, proving that they were, indeed, an asset at Warwick even if none of the language classes upstairs could hear for the buzz saws!

A WHS student welds a brighter future.

Drama Students Memorize, Study to Attain Excellence

The Drama students at Warwick were nôt difficult to recognize as they came rushing out of class late, hurriedly wiping the oily make-up and eye shadow from their faces and trying to remember the exact vocal techniques involved in saying, "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers."

Vocal and make-up techniques, however, were only two of the many phases of Drama studied this year. Others were thè history of the theatre, reading and analyzing of various plays, stage craft, costumes and group acting.

There were no specific test books used in Drama, but the library suppied the department with related materials for their courses such as those about Stanislavski and "The Method." In the way of field trips and equipment, the Drama Department made good use of a tape recorder, a trip to a William and Mary theatre production, and a visit to a well-equipped theater.

A new face, at least among the Drama students this year, was Miss Shirley Minnick, the "leading lady" of the Drama Department. Under her direction, Warwick's famed actors were constantly involved in theatrical productions.

"My eyes always work better after they are greased!"

Advanced Art Course Offers Choice of Media

Block printing: the first step to counterfeiting.

Mr. Sheaks stood at the front of the class, dressed in white levis, a long rubber apron, and a madras hat, casually dabbing at another masterpiece as he explained to his students: "Modern painting does not mean surf boards, '65 Sting Rays, or beauties in topless swim suits."

However "square" this advice may have sounded to the enthusiastic teenagers, the fact was they put it to good use and came up with some first class art.

In Mr. Britten's class, the predominant media were ceramics and textiles. The students learned various glazing and decorating techniques and also worked with stitching and weaving.

In Mrs. Carson's class, the students were found designing and constructing with metal such things as mobiles and jewelry.

In Miss Perrin's class, the future artists experimented with sculpturing and graphic work using such materials as clay, wax, wood, plaster, wire, metal, and stone.

Last, but never least, Mr. Sheaks' classes sketched, drew, and painted in the various medias including oils, water-paints, polymer, encaustic, and mixed media. The ultimate result of this unlimited field for artistic creativity was a variety of art work, both abstract and realistic, of such subjects as surfboards, Sting Rays . . .

"Happy trails to you . . ."

Music Department Works To Present Vocalists, Band

The Music Department may have been the cause of many day-dreaming music lovers, who unknowingly began tapping their toes in time with the second period band clarinet section or male chorus. But one couldn't complain when supplied with music to cook by, even if it was coming through the ceiling of one's classroom.

The Music Department was under the direction of Mr. Smith, band director, who was aided by Mr. Tew, chorus director, and Mr. Ball, junior band director. The two divisions in the department were band and vocal.

The band classes were divided into various sections such as woodwind, brass, percussion, and bagpipes for their daily practice.

In the vocal classes, conducted by Mr. Tew, A Cappella, Girls' Chorus, and Male Chorus made enough noise to trick the electronic students in the next classroom into believing their radios actually worked.

Budding Homemakers in Home Ec Classes Prepare for Future

"Just a few more hours and we'll finish this handkerchief."

"Let's serve it now while it's still crawling."

"Of course it doesn't fit. That's the arm facing you're sewing on the neck."

The frustration of continuously reworking and redoing was as much a part of Home Economics as the finished products and the satisfaction of a job well done.

The Home Economics Department offered a wide variety of courses and fields of study for the future homemakers. Some of these were interior decoration, child study, care for the sick, flower arrangement, food preparation and cookery, and the techniques and fundamentals of sewing.

In Home Economics away from home, the classes made several trips to such places as the Colonial Stores for demonstrations on meat cutting and the China Palace to see displays of glassware, silver, and tableware.

The cry during first semester may have been one of disappointment or it may have been a laugh of hopelessness, but sometime in the span of the five years offered, the student was bound to come up with a blue ribbon pie, even if it was just verbal.

Boys, Girls Labor to Achieve Agility, Fitness

Murder Ball? . . . Definitely!!

"Pull that stomach in! Point those toes straight ahead. What's the matter? Are you pigeon toed?"

Since the Girls' Physical Education Department added a unit in posture and body mechanics, many of the girls at Warwick came out of gym class feeling rather like "pooped" pigeons.

Besides learning about correct posture, the girls were taught many different sports including volleyball, softball, track, basketball, tennis, gymnastics, field hockey, and tumbling.

The skills and sportsmanship acquired from these athletic experiences aided the student toward achieving a well-balanced personality and a sense of "fair play."

Films to help the girls understand various sports better and records for better exercise participation were two teaching methods employed. The record, "Chicken Fat" may have seemed a little ridiculous to some, but when the slightly hefty girls were forced to sit down and rest, we knew it wasn't "chicken" fat they were losing.

In the boys' classes of the Physical Education Department, the boys came up against a real variety of exercises and sports.

"Crab soccer" was a great favorite if one could just avoid being kicked in the head.

Without a doubt, though, the most looked-forward-to-hour of the day was the period of continuous exercising which included four count burpies, push-ups, sit-ups, rocking chairs, and leg lifts to the sound of Coach Thompson's, "one, chew . . . one, chew . . ."

"Oh, my aching sacroiliac."

"I don't care how much Mr. Hayes liked your comic book, it's five weeks overdue."

Library Offers Spacious, Cultural Atmosphere

One area of Warwick High School which was popular for many reasons (some of which were rather peculiar) was the library. The importance of this quiet and orderly room was often overlooked by those not quick enough to see behind the book shelves and catch a glimpse of the day dreaming in the next aisle. Other equally odd practices, perhaps we should say scholarly, were the groups of last-minute "cram" conferences, the composing of the second draft of a term paper and the hurriedly written book reports due seventh period.

With this many people urgently occupied and the helpful librarians, Mrs. Harmon and Mrs. McMurran, patrolling the aisle, one could always count on a quiet atmosphere in which to conduct his business.

The library contained approximately 1400 books and 100 periodicals, which to many students seemed amazing because the one book they particularly wanted was unfailingly already checked out.

It also seemed to mystify students that out of the many new books ordered, only two or three were on his required reading book list.

Disregarding the library's over-emphasized short-comings, the inquisitive student found much of value in this pleasant, spacious room. The audio-visual materials, handled by the library, enabled classes to see numerous films, and the students to have all the worth-while assemblies offered this past year.

The library staff, including the thirty-eight library assistants, worked tediously to issue new library cards to all Warwick students which, however, seemed always to be at home in the other wallet or purse when the student needed to check out a book.

"Mad . . . Maid . . . Mail . . . MALE!"

LET'S

Classes

At a first glance we see students studying English. We know that every student must spend long hours with certain specific subjects but the question is—"What other benefits do students receive as members of a class?" At a second glance we see Glenn Barrett quizzically regarding his test paper in Introductory Physics, Sharon Wiseman, Donna Burnett, and Steve Moore trying out their new found school-spirit at a basketball game, Diane Moody, Barbara Hamlett, and Elizabeth Fife portraying typical expressions at the remarks made in Wednesday morning Congress meetings, Jimmy Spielberger finding that Decorations Committee for the prom is not all "bright ideas," and, lastly, Mr. Phillips adjusting a proud senior's cap for her important graduation pictures.

These are the extra benefits that come from being a member of a class—a well-rounded education in both studies, group work, and fun.

Melvin Reynolds, President: "Bum, bum, bum, here I come; Bam, bam, bam, here I am: Bo, bo, bo, there I go."

Sue Willis, Secretary-Treasurer: "This is easy. It reminds me of water skiing in the Sahara Desert."

Frank Coleman, Vice-President: "Go away, can't you see I'm skating?"

"Remember the Class of '65?", and immediately 304 Senior voices yell . . . "How could we FORGET it?" School began for the mighty Seniors in September (for some reason school always does), and reflections include such wonderful memories as football wins over Newport News and Hampton, work on Senior Committees, and a Powderpuff tie. Then there were Senior pictures, Christmas and all its parties, snow days and sledding, and the Farmer basketball team and the tournament. There was the Senior hootenanny, and those spotlights that took hours to put up.

And we must mention the Senior "by-word"—"BUY!" Who can forget the desperate announcements in the morning bulletins: "Attention students—This year the Senior Class is selling attractive Warwick High note paper . . . And if one managed to escape the stationery peddlers, there were always the diploma-holder salesmen, and hootenanny ticket solicitors to contend with!

There was the Senior Assembly to order cards and announcements, where students became thoroughly aware that "it's proper etiquete to . . ." There was Senior Leadership Day with Melvin as Mr. Caywood, and then the beautiful May 8th Prom with its theme—"Song of India."

And so the class of '65 reached that moment when Warwick High School became a past . . . graduation. There were speakers, Senior Leaders, and our song, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You." Suddenly it was here—and then gone . . . But the wonderful thing about looking back on the past was that memories were filled with only the best times, and there was no doubt that the Class of '65 had more "best times" in their five short years than anyone else could fit into a lifetime!

Roundtrey, Saunders, Gibbons Lead Money-Minded Juniors

"But Mr. Kennedy, fruit flies just won't sell! Let's have some other money making projects."

The Class of '66 found that raising money to finance the Prom was the major undertaking of the year. Every activity sponsored by the hard-working Juniors was centered around this goal. After being persuaded to give up his skateboard and sponsor the class, Mr. Kennedy ably assisted the officers and committee heads in their endeavors. The Powderpuff football game, which was a hard fought battle between Junior and Senior girls, ended in a tied score as well as in a financial compromise. A dance sponsored by the class after the Maury basketball game met with success and, along with the selling of Junior Class ski hats, filled the treasury with the much needed green paper. Probably the most enjoyable and profitable project was the coat-check held at all home basketball games. If ever the two green doors were found closed and unrepeatable ejaculations fluently emitted, it could be certain that the sturdy coat rack had again fallen from its overload of chesterfield coats, monogram jackets, hats, skateboards, etc. But after the confusion died down, the able juniors solved the problem with steadfast patience and gritted teeth.

Money was not the only concern of this hard-working class. For the first time the Class of '66 had the distinction of being upperclassmen, a distinction which carried many and varied responsibilities. Participation was also a key word connected with the Juniors. Sports, choral work, band, as well as an active part in the school publications, The Earle, The Warwick, and The Plough were a basic part of the extra activities of the class. Well, back to money! This time the Juniors gave away part of their treasured treasury in the form of $100 to the SCA scholarship fund.

Maybe the Junior Class did seem a bit miserly this past year, but the results of their greediness were well worth-while as was proven when the elaborate prom theme was revealed. Capability was shown in each task as they eagerly awaited their big chance to prove themselves the leaders—as Seniors of WHS. There was still some doubt in many a Junior's mind, however, at the close of the year—"I wonder if fruit flies would have sold!"

Sophomore Class Spotlights Individual Accomplishments

Cries of "Johnson" and "Goldwater" were hurled from one side of the auditorium to the other as Sophomores participated in the mock presidential election with much hollering and red, white, and blue. Signs reading "LBJ for the USA" and "AuH_2O" were carried with all the political loyalty of salty veterans. Sophomores felt their small part in our big democracy gave them a glimpse of their future, not only in school, but also in later life. Putting this knowledge to work, the Sophomore class proceeded to earn their $100 for the SCA Scholarship Fund. Still, they found that most of their recognition came from individual efforts made in sports, organizations, and academic pursuits.

"Are you proud of your school" was a favorite with the three sophomore J.V. cheerleaders, while "victory, victory, is our cry" must have been constantly running through Sophomore Varsity basketball starter, Bob Kretz's mind as he contributed to the Farmer's teamwork. Sophomores also excelled on the undefeated J.V. football team, while some even played varsity. On the scholastic side of the scoreboard, Robert Dunn was only one of several Sophomores who amazed everyone with his A covered report card. In beauty and personality the class likewise rated high with representatives Toni Dedmond at Homecoming and Courtney O'Sullivan in the Miss Hi-Y Pageant.

Individual talent was the key word in the Sophomore Class which looked forward to a junior year as upperclassmen with unlimited resources to draw from for a successful future.

Enthusiasm, Zeal Key Words for Active Freshmen

The AFS bond sales chart in the middle hall seemed to be the congregating place for most of the Freshmen this fall as they kept up the race for first place in financing next year's foreign exchange student—and won it too! This all out effort seemed to unify the class so that under the leadership of the peppy Freshman president, Sharon Wiseman, the class was able to sponsor a Valentine's Dance to boost their treasury, besides the traditional Freshman activity of sponsoring the Senior Assembly in the spring. Most shocking of all the Freshman enterprises was the unexpected donation of their $100 to the SCA Scholarship Fund at only about the second meeting of Congress.

Money raising projects were only part of a "real" Freshman's life at Warwick. For the first time, the ninth graders really got their teeth into the courses and activities. Freshman boys participated in J.V. football, helping to give the J.V.'s an undefeated year, and in basketball, baseball, and track, resulting in winning seasons all the way. Not to be outdone by the boys, the Freshman girls went athletic and participated with zeal in all the sports offered through the G.R.A. Also on the female athletic side were the three girls who practiced "Victory, Victory" so much that they made J.V. cheerleading. We also found hard-working freshmen in many clubs and SCA work, especially Pep Committee, a favorite with these over enthusiastic underclassmen.

Anxiety Runs High for Mice During First Hectic Days

When 598 eighth graders took their seats in the auditorium for the orientation program, many upperclassmen were seriously contemplating transferring to a three year high school. Not only were the eighth graders overpowering in number, but they also seemed to be making them bigger than ever before. However, after the first couple of pep assemblies, the majority of the upperclassmen were forced to admit that their 598 "bigger" voices added a lot to Warwick spirit. Besides their growing enthusiasm, Warwick's new Farmers were eager to get to work as a class. New leaders stepped forward to guide their class with such activities as a St. Patrick's Day Dance and plans for a bake sale and car wash to raise money for their donation of $100 to the SCA Scholarship Fund. The eighth graders also proved their importance with their contributions to drives such as the AFS bond sale, the Hi-Y Christmas drive, and the "loose change" collection which the SCA made on behalf of the needy teenagers.

When second semester rolled around, the students learned what it was like to take "exams," but many of them still wound up looking for homerooms that didn't exist. Later in the year, with Mr. D'Amelio's help, schedules were made out for next year as the eighth graders realized with a pang of both fear and expectation . . . "why we're almost SENIORS!"

Activities

At a first glance, we see a student, participating. We know he belongs to school clubs and organizations, but, the question is—"What does he do?" At second glance we see Mike Chesson speaking for the Orientation Committee in Congress, the Plough dedication being presented to Mrs. Baker, Carol Spencer selling Bobby Yates his name on his annual, Dale Bateman studying chess moves with a fellow club member, Everrett Hogge discussing debate presentation with Mrs. Hundly, and members of the Executive Honor Council posing in front of their "honor week" bulletin board.

This is what Warwick's students do in their clubs—work on projects that build WHS's tradition.

SCA Executives Devote Time, Energy to Duties

A popular phrase around the SCA room with the Executive Council was, "Never a dull moment," and never were truer words spoken. If it wasn't Mrs. Kostyal pounding her shoe against the water fountain on the back steps of the library (a secret signal necessary when the door was locked), it was the weird mixtures of Trig and Warwick cheers issuing forth from the thin walls of the SCA room first period.

In actuality the Executive Council worked together quite successfully, accomplishing much.

Some of the projects dealt with were the second annual Variety Show, establishment of new cabinet positions, Farmer Day, the District SCA Conference which Warwick hosted, a faculty tea, the Federation sponsored weeks, the distribution of Honor Cards, the re-establishment of Chapel services, and the formation of various committees to investigate and improve conduct and attitudes at Warwick.

However, most of the first period meetings were spent with individual work. Billy Dunn, SCA president, assisted by Brenda Winall, vice-president, and sponsor, Mrs. Kostyal, composed the agenda for the weekly Congress meetings held Wednesday in the boys' gym and dealt with visitors whose business concerned the student body.

Mary Pat Tull, treasurer, spent her mornings running back and forth to the IBM room filling out purchase orders and trying to figure out where that extra $180.01 came from so she could balance her books. Kathy Scott, secretary, spent her short hour rewriting minutes of Congress meetings for the homeroom bulletins, keeping an accurate weekly Congress attendance roll, as well as doing all necessary correspondence and making ballots for various elections.

With the odds being three to one in favor of the female opinion, Billy was often heard to cry out, "Wait, stop, you're railroading this through!" But a little pressure enforced outside of school established once and for all an even balance.

S.C.A. president, Billy Dunn, joins in Farmer Day.

"Why don't you come up and see us sometime?"

SCA Federation Promotes Relations Between Schools

"Just wait till we play you in football and basketball, then you'll see who has the best school."

This was a familiar cry at many of the monthly Federation meetings this past year. Even though remarks such as this were frequently made, and Newport News kept attempting to disband the whole Federation, the group did occasionally manage to accomplish its purpose of bettering relations between schools.

Under Lee Byers' leadership, many programs were changed. The seven delegates from the members schools of Ferguson, Hampton, Newport News, York, Kecoughtan, and Warwick were evenly divided and placed on committees where the majority of the business was conducted.

The three committees were: Weeks, Projects, and Programs.

The Weeks Committee made suggestions for weeks to be sponsored and conducted by each school at the same time. Those chosen were: Leadership Training, Know Your S.C.A., Americanism, and Brotherhood.

As its service project, the Federation gave parties for the children's ward in two local hospitals during Christmas. Warwick was responsible for purchasing the gifts for the children at Mary Immaculate Hospital.

Other projects and programs were an invitation for St. Vincent's Catholic High School to join Federation, and two exchange days sponsored by Kecoughtan and York.

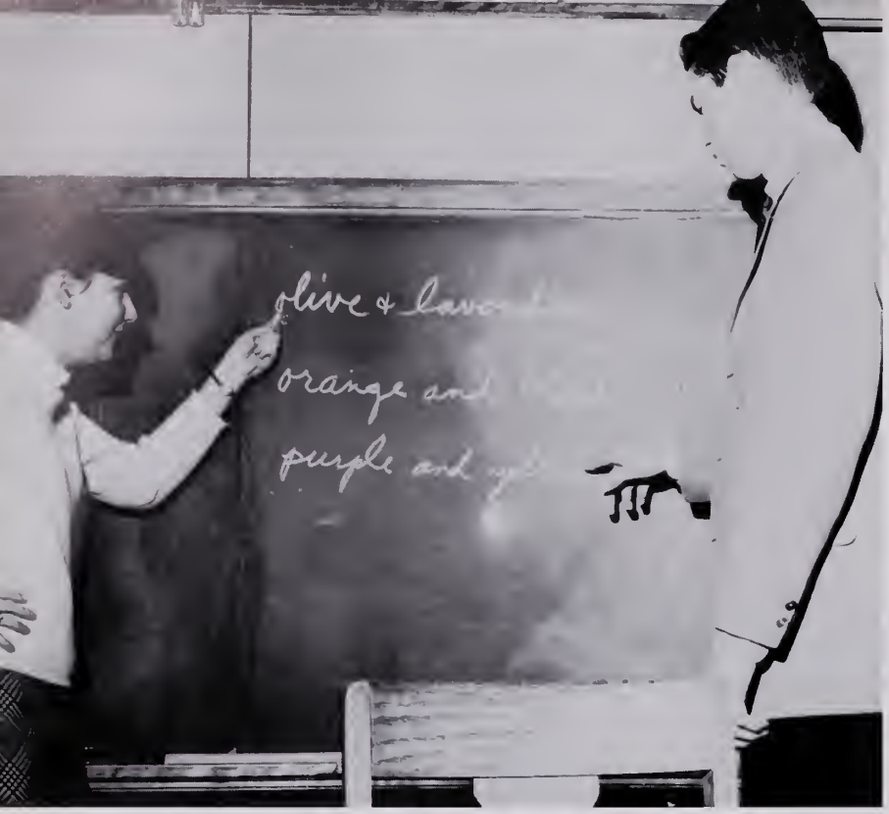
Senators Strive to Create A United, Efficient SCA



Melvin Reynolds converses with Senior Class color committee Chairman, Linda Russell—one of the many duties of the office which places him in the Senate.

"There will be a Senate meeting Monday afternoon in the SCA room to draw up the Aims and Objectives. All class officers and the President of the Executive Honor Council please be present."

A frequent message in the daily bulletin this year was a call to duty for the Senators of the SCA. Their efficient execution of their many duties enabled the SCA to continue functioning properly.

One of the first actions of the Senate was performed in the spring of 1964, shortly after class elections, when the Senate met to approve the newly appointed SCA Cabinet.

When the new school year started in September, they met again to appoint a Board of Elections, to revise the SCA Aims and Objectives, and to approve other presidential appointments. These meetings were presided over by Brenda Winall, SCA vice-president, and supplemented by the guidance of Mrs. Kostyal, SCA sponsor.

Throughout the year, the main objective of the Senate was to promote unity among the classes; and, in doing so, to organize a more effective SCA. Special emphasis, however, was placed on co-operation among the classes in raising their contributions to the SCA Scholarship Fund.

Barbara Rountrey, a Senate member, discusses the effect of the Aims and Objectives on the Junior Class with Don Owen and Susan Tilson.

Representative Congress Influences School Policy

"Congress will now come to order . . ."

The House of Representatives consisted of nearly all the members of Congress. Those included in this body were the homeroom presidents, the cabinet chairmen, members of the Executive Honor Council, and all club representatives, totaling approximately 120 members.

The House of Representatives was more active this year than any previous year, selling Variety Show tickets, transacting all SCA business concerning appropriations, electing delegates when necessary, and reporting all business and activities to their respective homeroom or club.

It seemed amazing at times when Congress was always full and ready to begin at 8:25, but perhaps it was due to the record kept in the cafeteria of weekly Congress attendance.

Of course, there were always a few shifty characters who drifted into Congress about 8:50, signed the roll, and somehow drifted back out again.

For the most part, however, students readily participated in the many facets of leadership and group activities possible through the Warwick High SCA.

Cabinet Plays Vital Part – Organizes SCA Activities

Globs of hair and piles of finger nails were often the results of long hours of planning and preparation which went into the various activities sponsored by the SCA committees.

Homecoming was a prime example of butterflies, knocking knees, and worried wits, as Johnny Atkins saw to the sub-committees who operated halftime autos for Judy Anderson and her court, worked on the announcing, which even worked this year, and built the bonfire for the pep rally. Carol Lee Barlow, on the other hand, worked with the committees assigned to creating the World's Fair skit, and selling too many maroon and gold mums.

The revival of a past committee in the form of the Halls and Corridors Committee headed by Jerry Peddicord adds to our list of SCA Cabinet members. It was the necessary job of these boys who gave up their study halls to see that students stayed out of certain halls during the two lunch periods.

The Building and Grounds Committee, a new member of the Cabinet this year, proved their worth with such projects as painting the ticket booths, the goal posts, and a great big maroon "W" on the announcer's box. The fifteen member committee headed by Hartley Dewey and Ronald Seymore attempted to make the Farmers proud of Warwick's appearance in every respect.

Then we come to the good intentions of Chaplain Wally McCully who earnestly tried to have a speaker and program every Thursday morning before school, but who was consistently fouled up by the band which had to practice in the auditorium while the band room went empty. Wally's one hope for next year was that Chapel might possibly be held in the—"band room?"

Toward the end of March, before SCA elections, the Federation sponsored committee of Leadership Training began their week of lectures and discussion groups which was climaxed by the Senior Leadership day.

Committees Encourage Interest, School Spirit, Pride

A hard-working but often unacknowledged group of workers was the stagecrew or Audio-Visual Committee under Al Nygren. Working with lights, sound effects, and designing and building sets, they assisted with various assemblies, the SCA Variety Show, and plays such as "Death Takes a Holiday."

The Social Committee, headed by Melvin Reynolds and Nicki Robins, which was responsible for SCA social functions such as the Faculty-Student Tea where little green and white sandwiches were the hit of the day, and everybody kept trying to meet the "new boy" with glasses who turned out to be Mr. Burnett, a new member of the Science Department, and the Homecoming Dance which was decorated for the first time in years.

Another new cabinet office this year was Historian, for which JoAnn Givens conscientiously kept a scrapbook of all the events from April '64 to April '65. However, her job was not without problems as she tried again and again to get the shop class to make a wooden cover for her stacks of newspaper covered pages.

The Projects Committee under the "whip" of Jimmy Spielberger and Linda Graham started off the year with a "snappy" innovation in the way of a committee sign-up day held in the cafeteria. Other projects readily tackled were invitations for the SCA Faculty-Student Tea, Christmas cards for the faculty and administration, and last, but hardly least, the entire production of the SCA Variety Show, which added over $600.00 to the SCA treasury.

One of Warwick's favorite and hardest working committees was the Pep Committee. Headed by Terry Plott and Carol Pond, the committee's job was to wallpaper the school on Mondays and Thursdays, depending on the season, with slogans such as "Sink the Mariners," "Crush the Crabbers," and "Beat Newport!"

Orientation First Committee at Work; Others Follow Suit

Still another new position this year was Remembrance for which Susan Tilson earnestly wrote "thank-yous," "get wells," and "glad to have you backs." We hope that she included a few for herself, too, because somehow she was always sick when someone needed a card.

The Publicity Committee, whose head sign makers were Christine Carney and Pete Hazelwood, was responsible for publicity for all SCA functions and programs. Besides those made for the students, signs were made and distributed throughout the Penninsula to bring adults to the SCA Variety Show. Pete and Chris also saw to it that the "Congress" and "Chapel" signs were put up in the middle hall every Wednesday and Thursday, respectively. The committee reported one rather suspicious event, however. This was the addition of the quote "The best government is that which teaches a man to govern himself," to the Congress sign from the black ink pen of a "most intelligent" senior who we know has spoken out against defacing signs . . .

Orientation Committee under Carol Spencer and Mike Chesson's direction became a year-round project, beginning with Orientation Day and the skit for the 8th graders, which was a take-off on the political conventions with candidates such as Flounder Fishnet, Blowhard Windbag, and Hayseed Farmer. Orientation booklets were redone this year with a minimum of confusion and upside-down pages. Also in the plans were a Big Brother-Big Sister program and a second semester orientation for new students.

Another group of very busy members was the Cafeteria Committee whose projects of keeping the SCA activities calendar, doing surveys of student eating habits (which brought out such interesting breakfasts as vitamin pills, chocolate eclairs, and celery juice), posting the monthly "mess" menu, and sponsoring a teacher appreciation day were so successful that the co-chairmen Alice Sampselle and Ricky Wilkinson even agreed on a few things.

Another group of hardworking members made up the Activity Ticket Committee headed by Vicki Mooza and Linda Buchanan. Working with Mr. Powers, the activities director, the committee sorted the tickets for sale in the homerooms before the first football game.

The latest rumors, reports, tales, and gossip are spread by the publicity committee consisting of: Clockwise Chrisitine Carney, Jeannie Albertson, Peggy Roberts, Dave Guilliams, Sue Willis, Barbara Fullenkamp, Betty Jo Suddith, Alice Sampselle, and Pete Hazelwood.

Honor Council Distributes New Honor Cards to Student Body

"The Promotion of Honor" was a theme "honorably" carried out by Warwick's Judicial Branch of the SCA—the Honor Council.

Making up this year's effective Council were the Executive Honor Council and the homeroom Honor Council. The former was elected by Congress and the latter by homerooms. Linda Graham was chosen Chairman of the Honor Council. The homeroom representatives performed the duty of writing the weekly honor saying on the blackboard and acting as a bond between the students and the Executive Honor Council. Some of the honor sayings were "Honesty is the best policy," "Hope of illgain is the beginning of loss," and "An honest man's the noblest work of God." These sayings became a constant reminder of the importance of honor.

One of the projects of the Honor Council was the origination and distribution of honor cards which also confirmed the SCA membership of an individual on the flip side. A constant question arising at Congress meetings during the fall was, "What's with the honor cards?" It seemed that the printer kept smearing the ink and printing the letters wrong-side out, or something to that effect.

However, the bright maroon and gold cards eventually arrived in December and were passed out in homeroom to the entire student body. In signing their names on their cards, they pledged to respect the faculty, property, and rights of others, and refrain from any form of cheating.

Other projects were an assembly stressing honor to the student body, honor weeks held during each exam period, bulletin boards decorated throughout the year, and a forum held to exchange ideas with other Peninsula Honor Councils.

Co-sponsors of the Honor Council were Mrs. Quesenberry and Colonel Archibald.

Ushers Attack Confusion, Disorder at WHS Functions

"No, this row is part of the Senior section—No, that row's reserved for the faculty—No, those rows are for the assembly members—Well, you could sit in the balcony . . ."

Ushers this year ran up against a few rather "minor" problems as they tried to seat 2200 students in an auditorium which held 1000 at maximum. Of course, as always, school programs were divided into two assemblies, but this still left a surplus of 200 students. However, a similar number were usually found performing on the stage so that the balance was not too overpowering.

With such a big job to perform the twenty-nine juniors and seniors who made up the ushers were kept busy at such school functions as plays, musical concerts, College Day, PTA Back-to-School Night, SCA Variety Show, graduation, and regular weekly assemblies.

Jo Ann Givens and Judy Anderson, whose job it was to see that there were ushers wherever and whenever they were needed, were chosen as head ushers. Serving as sponsor of this honorary group was Mr. Sheaks. Under his direction their purpose of maintaining order and providing courteous assistance at school functions was carried out with pride and pleasure.

The ushers were chosen on the basis of poise, neatness, tact, friendliness, and leadership ability. To qualify for this position, they also had to have above average grades, write a paper on why they would like to become an usher, and be recommended by two teachers.

"If you give me your name, address, and phone number, I'll call you when we have a seat available."

Eagle Staff Provides Better News Coverage for School

"Addition" can best describe the '64-'65 Earle staff. Almost doubling the previous group, this year 22 students contributed to the publication of Warwick's newspaper in one way or another.

Appearing every two weeks in six pages, The Earle supplemented its standard news and sports stories with several regular features. A favorite with students was the fashion spotlighted in each edition which local clothing stores foresaw as pace-setters in teenage wardrobes.

Another feature "added" for the benefit of college-bound students was the College Profile, in which the requirements, history, curriculum, and expenses of various colleges were reported.

In order for WHS students to learn of other schools' activities, a column entitled "Offbeat," was "added," drawing its material from newspapers with which The Earle exchanged.

The "addition" of a few over-enthusiastic artists enabled the staff to present meaningful cartoons to support its editorial policies. Throughout the year several editorial campaigns were conducted.

Two typists and three photographers were also "added" to expedite production of the publication.

Inventive, original feature pages were popular with the student body as well as "floating" pictures which were often humorous.

There were many experiments in make-up of the pages, all designed to present articles and pictures in a more pleasing and correct way. Much emphasis was placed on upholding writing and journalistic principles.

In order to achieve a more professional product, The Earle switched to newsprint for publications. The staff felt this increased student interest and improved the overall appearance of the newspaper.

With only five "veteran" staffers and a new sponsor, Miss Judi Faris, various problems arose. But, through teamwork and cooperation, sometimes referred to as "Kay will go it . . ." or Miss Faris' "Ya'll be quiet!", the staff compiled a product which reflected the spirit and traditions of Warwick High.

Top: Jeannie Albertson: "And after the skinny man with the mustache tied you on the railroad tracks, what happened?"

New Camera, Unique Layouts Characterize Staff

Karen Clark to Betty Wall: "Don't hit me and I promise I'll put in my sixty hours next week."

SUPERCALIFRAGILISTICEXPIALIDOCIOUS or "Practically perfect in every way!" was the only way to describe the team of workers occasionally known as the Warwick staff, and more frequently as "those bunch of crazy people with the candid camera who work in that pig-pen of a room . . . 181." OK, OK, we didn't deny it . . . the Earle staff messed it up! Innovations—in with the new, out with the old—and ACTION, ACTION, ACTION, (especially around deadline time!) were popular phrases. Everyone including five editors, six Junior assistants, two photographers, and a frantic sponsor, Mr. Howell, learned that putting out an $8000 annual was one of the biggest jobs imaginable, especially with the tons of added responsibilities which were necessitated by the new ideas this year. For example, the staff took on the tremendous job of taking all the pictures except class pictures. This huge task, often referred to as "Pam's Bright Idea," entailed a DO-IT-YOURSELF Photography Kit made up of such objects of interest as a beautiful Mamiyaflex C-3 camera, a Braun Automatic Electronic Flash, a Bessler C-2 enlarger, and last, but never least, a dark room.

Other "bright ideas" went into writing copy that would defy all rules and regulations, (for example, too many commas), but at least tell what happened, or didn't happen, when, where, and who did it, plus . . . what happened when "it" didn't happen.

Working under the constant pressure of the three DREADLINES, many of the staffers went quietly mad and a few raving mad as copy was lost, film discovered exposed, certain people absent, deluges of snow the day before a deadline (we ice-skated to school that day), seats broken from skateboarding, picture schedules mixed-up, homework unfinished (or more than likely, unstarted!), Juniors seemingly non-existent, layout sheets . . . let's forget the layout sheets, and misspelled words . . . MISSPELLED!

Mountains of work, hills of tired bones, and piles of wishy-washy gray matter were all that was left of the droopy staffers around midnight of March 10th, but when that beautiful Maroon and Gold Annual—packed full of "Action '65" and its many "second glances" finally arrived in May—Well . . . we all left town.

Linda Buchanan reads copy to Kathy Scott: "and the Warwick staff is stupendous, besides being wonderful and great. We are better than any . . ."

Plough Staffers Compile Magazine of Student Work

"You see the logic of course!" "Well, in my connotation . . ." "Is it abstract or concrete?" "Glagh! Trite, trite, trite . . . " Just a few choice comments issuing from the keyhole of room 272, the room in which inspirations, ideas, and innovations went into the production of a quality magazine, The Plough.

The sixteen members of the Advanced Composition class, along with co-editors, Kathy Scott and Don Owen, spent many hours reviewing creative pieces submitted by the student body, typing and proofing accepted material, and laying out the magazine to create a well-balanced and unique concept.

With the arrival of the first Plough, in December, the magazine was dedicated to Mrs. Baker who was sighted for "devoting, offering, and instilling" a respect and interest in The Plough and the entire literary field.

This year, for the first time, patron ads were sold to help finance the three editions.

Another new feature involving the staff was the addition of an Art Adviser, Miss Perrin. She assumed the duties of co-ordinating the Art and Literary Departments. Working with the students on the over-all plan and as a constant supervisor was the ever dedicated Miss Callahan, who has served as sponsor for the last six years.

In the editor positions were most of the second year students. They were Donna Hales, Feature Editor; Brenda Burnette, Poetry Editor; Mike Chesson, Short Story Editor; Jimmy Spielberger, Essay Editor; and Pat O'Sullivan, Exchange Editor.

With the attendance of two juniors to SIPA in May and the final arrival of the Spring issue—dedicated to the Seniors—the Plough Staff sadly bid the magazine and their inspirational learning experiences good-by.

"I'm sure if we put our heads together we can come up with some sort of dilemma."

"You're right, Jimmy. According to their latest tabulations, Goldwater is sure to sweep the election."

As The Plough deadline draws near, so do the editors. (Supposedly to complete the dummy edition.)

Susan Tilson: "Yes, I definitely feel our deadline should be on February 30."

"Now, Kathy, this is very good; however, you don't spell Plough P-l-o-w."

"Here comes the emperor . . ." Led by "Parker Baby" and followed by the "pied pipers," or Bagpipes Corps, the Warwick Grenadier Band paraded through Winchester for the Apple Blossom Festival, picking up their usual amounts of trouble and trophies, marched across the football field for halftime activities, and filed into the Oyster Bowl for the big weekend of college activities.

The first of such performances took place during the summer when the band and pipes won top honors in the Tri-Centennial Parade held in Fredericksburg.

Students were pleasantly surprised at halftime activities this year to hear the band's presentation of music from several well-known musicals as introductions to the program. Two of these were the "1812 Overture" and "Boris Godunov."

Another first was witnessed with the presentation of three banners to the Pipe Major, Pipe Sergeant, and Regular Corps Piper by retired Col. Nickerson, who seemed to have a few difficulties attaching them to the pipes first assembly, perhaps as a result of Janet Burgess' knocking knees. The banners, which were used for special occasions only, were patterned after the British Colestream Guards.

The concert season, under Mr. Lyle Smith's direction, featured such selections as the four part, half-hour "L'Arlesienne," and the Scottish song, "Tintagel," which was conducted by its composer, Mr. William J. Skeat, in the annual Robert Burns Concert. The Spring Concert was in itself a real thrill for the whole student body, as the Duke University band joined forces with Warwick's Grenadiers.

One of the biggest honors of the year for a band member, however, was to be selected to participate in the District, Regional, and Workshop Bands. For this there was a three day meeting during which a program was composed and presented to the public in February.

Other activities before the year's end were the Azelea Festival, the Washington Safety Day Parade, the Armed Forces Day Parade, the summer concert and most important—at least to the Senior musicians—graduation.

"I don't know what it is about that piper's music that seems to draw me to it."

Junior Band Learns Basics, Plays for JV Grid Games

From behind the closed doors of the auditorium was heard the jilting rhythm of "Java." At least that was the title given to this piece of music by the Maroon Band . . .

The halls of Warwick were filled with the efforts of these young musicians for the first three hours of every day, and, although complaints came loud and fast in the beginning, improvements were steadily made, and the hard work of the group showed fine results.

Under the leadership of Mr. Ball, the 75 members learned their duties and by dividing into 3 sections—brass, woodwind, and percussion—familiarized themselves with such new pieces as "Sugar Lips" and "Cotton Candy." All of this practicing and praying wasn't just for their own benefit, however, for they eagerly participated in various concerts, assemblies, and parades. The Christmas season was a busy one for the band, as they displayed their talents in the Christmas Concert and assembly. "Our Director" and "Yuletide Festival" were selections played by the shiny-eyed musicians. Williamsburg was the place designated for the Christmas Parade in which Warwick's Maroon Band also entertained. The Firemen's Parade and Armed Forces Day Parade were excellent opportunities for their enthusiastic endeavors.

"Is Warwick going to win? You bet yer fur!" was the wholehearted contribution of the Maroon Band as they proudly marched into the stands at the J.V. football games in their spirited, but scratchy maroon and gold wool uniforms. Under the guidance of Michael Klarer, the drum major, the band tooted the J.V. team on to an undefeated season.

Later in the year the Junior Band marched proudly in the Spring Festival held at Buckroe. For those students having trouble or needing extra practice, after-school classes were held.

Certainly the Maroon Band distinguished themselves this past year, for the result of their distinction—spasmodic scratching from those itchy wool uniforms—can still be seen in the halls of Warwick.

Russian Folk Song One Highlight of Male Chorus Year

"Talk about active songs . . ."

Skateboards seemed to be Warwick's status symbol this year, as Mr. Tew joined ranks with Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Howell after the Christmas concert in which the Male Chorus awarded Mr. Tew his prized possession.

Variety was a good description of the Male Chorus' activities as they attempted everything from the sale of WARWICK decals to the laborious but beautiful strains of "I Believe."

Participation in school concerts took up most of Male Chorus' time as they sang in the Fall Concert, the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert. Some of their selections were the Russian folk song, "Song of Youth," and "O'Carry Me 'Long," and "I Want A Girl"—most definitely the strongest of the three.

Always representing Warwick's progressive (or was it aggressive?) Music Department, the white letter sweatered chorus sang for such organizations as the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, and Hilton Methodist Church.

The forty member group functioned similarly to a club. Under Mr. Tew's direction the boys were kept constantly working for perfection, and the words "good girl" were frequently tossed from teacher to student, words that were, however, not complementary, but only slang for "nice botch!"

Ron Hochheimer, a really talented pianist, accompanied Male Chorus this year. Other of their favorite songs were "Winter Song" and, the student body's favorite, "What Shall We Do With the Drunken Sailor" (Male Chorus hadn't come up with an answer but they were working on it in their spare time—in between "Gloria" and "Forever Free.").

Girls' Chorus Entertains at Assemblies, Concerts

Dark blue skirts and light blue blouses were seen around Warwick in larger numbers than ever before as they became the official outfit for the greatest number of Girls' Chorus members ever before at Warwick. The forty member group participated in many varied activities. Some of these were a performance at the First Methodist Church, a Christmas concert, and a Valentine assembly.

One of the highlights of the year resulted in a few cases of laryngitis and "note" weary eyes as competition ran high for the coveted positions in the Choral Department's Christmas presentation of The Incarnate Word. Those who didn't participate in this part of the Christmas activities got their chance just the same in the school assembly where the Girls' Chorus sang selections such as "Simple Gifts" by Aaron Copeland. Another of the well liked concerts was the spring musical entitled "The Lowland Sea."

Girls' Chorus, which was organized much like a club, functioned under president Marion Hockaday with the help of Mr. Tew, director and sponsor. The girls even had their own librarian, Jeannie Strover, who was in charge of keeping the music sheets straight and their own costume director, Melanie Tissiere, who was responsible for seeing that everyone was properly attired for a performance.

Choir Presents Concerts Highlights Year With Song

Individual singing auditions in front of a stern-faced Mr. Tew drew quivering voices from many prospective A Cappella members as they competed for a place in the selective choir in the spring of '64. Those who passed the test, however, found themselves dressed in long maroon robes with gold stoles decorating their shoulders as they stood on risers in the auditorium caroling "All Glory Be to God." With director Mr. Tew leading them in their efforts, they were a familiar sight at the many concerts given by the Music Department this year. Some of these were the annual Christmas, Easter, and Spring concerts. Highlighting the Christmas program was the striking performance of The Incarnate Word, but, probably most enjoyed by the student body, was the A Cappella's presentation of "Do You Hear What I Hear" at the school assembly.

In the fall, the choir was honored by being asked to sing at the Virginia Music Educator's Convention in Richmond. Also red-letter days on the A Cappella calendar were the concerts for the Rotary Club, Peninsula Shipbuilders Association, and the annual joint Christmas concert with the Grenadier band.

Through conscientious work and long screechy practices, the A Cappella Choir mastered such choral masterpieces as "Bouree" and "Kittery" which when presented to the student body, met with ready enthusiasm.

Students Join New Clubs Formed at Warwick This Year

The German Club officers are: Row 1: Diana Hack, Kitty Elkins, Row 2: Alvin Mirmelstein, C. M. Pritchard.

"Have you heard—they're starting a new club!"

"Great, what day will it be? I hope it's not Monday, that's Debate practice, and then Tuesday's Quill and Scroll and basketball games, Wednesday's Key Club, Thursday's Pep Committee. Well I COULD fill it in on Friday afternoon between Forensics and FTA—what is it?"

This was a typical schedule for many students at Warwick where there was as large a choice of extracurricular activities as academic courses.

The German Club was a new member of Warwick's extracurricular clubs. Organized by the German classes, the name Deutscher Verein was chosen early in the year. The usual procedures for creation of a new club were followed as Kitty Elkins, president, asked Congress for approval, and the club adopted a constitution. One of the most interesting points of their meetings were the devotions which were read first in German and then in English to make sure a few laggards didn't miss out. Although the German Club made little money, they did have a booth in the AFS Carnival, and the members purchased pins.

Another new club was the Y-Teens, whose activities varied from a "Hanging of the Greens" Christmas ceremony at the local YWCA where Warwick won third place, to a Dad and Daughters Square Dance in February. Some of their other activities were a week-end trip to Washington, D.C. to visit the Washington Cathedral, a Peninsula Potato Chip Sale, and a week-end trip to Camp Owaissa.

Finding the origin of Warwick's Alma Mater was a project which the newly formed Keyettes Club chose to undertake after its formation in the fall. Certain students were chosen by the faculty to be charter members, and they attended a convention at Princess Anne to find out about the Keyettes' functions and purpose. Linda Graham was elected to head the club while Sharon Wiseman, a freshman, and Anne Rodriguez, our foreign exchange student, were given honorary membership. Qualifications for membership were a C+ average and Senior, Junior, or Sophomore standing.

Y-Teen members are Row 1: Carolyn Grissom, Alice Burden, Diane Bignall, Row 2: Dot Eller, Marilyn Hobgood, Cindy Nichols, Row 3: Brenda Brandeveer, Betty Hamilton, and Sara Gray.

Clubs Form Major Part of Extracurricular Activities

Maroon and gold monogram jackets made it impossible to miss a Warwick Monogram Club member this year, as their project drew attention from all Warwick students. Other of their successful projects were the sale of programs at the football and basketball games, a dance after the Maury football game, and the beginnings of a Sport's Hall of Fame with a picture of the 1961 basketball team which placed third in the state tournament.

Conventions were a big part of Tri-Hi-Y activities this year, with elected members attending the Leadership Training Camp at Blue Ridge, the Virginia District Conference in Portsmouth, and the Model General Assembly in Richmond. Being primarily a service organization, the Tri-Hi-Y chose to educate a young foreign boy with the money they earned from dances. Other activities were a Mother-Daughter Banquet, sale of poppies for disabled veterans, help with Orientation, and food for needy families.

The science fair was the goal of many of the members of the Science and Math Club this year as they encouraged members by activities such as field trips to Union Carbide and Dow Chemical, after school work in the various labs, and speakers and films.

Another new club on the long list this year was the Forensic Club, for those especially interested in oral reading improvement in poetry and prose. Membership was open to all grades with the main objective of the year being their preparation for the district meet sponsored by the Virginia High School League.

Under Mrs. Walsh's sponsorship the Spanish Club, which carried the name of Los Conquistadores was, in contrast to the other language classes, operated outside of class. During the Christmas festivities a program was held where spicy Spanish food was served and gay pinatas filled with seasonable gifts presented. Regular bimnothly meetings and extra activities also did their part in increasing the students' knowledge and enjoyment of the language.

"Checkmate, friend . . ." A logical end to one of the eighteen chessmatches which the Warwick High School Chess Club participated in as members and founders of the Peninsula High School Chess League. With the experience of enthusiastic members Warwick made real competition in the battle of the minds for the High School Chess League Crown. Bobby Tankard served as president for not only the Warwick Chess Club, but also the Chess League. With Mr. Tew's help the club sponsored a chess clinic where students were tutored, held inter-club round robin tournaments, and, believe it or not, conducted a chess game with another school by correspondence.

Le Circle Francais, or French Club, activities and programs varied from Mr. Sheaks' talks on French Art to Anne Rodriguez, our French speaking foreign exchange student from Belgium, and her French Christmas carols. Programs were done through the individual classes as the students worked with the planning and preparation, which often times meant that programs were "better late than never," and occasionally "never." Other activities were an annual banquet and a booth in the AFS fair.

Members of the Math and Science Club are: Row 1: Mr. McNeill, Sponsor, Boyce Lavender, Larry Ferris, Mr. Drummond, Sponsor. Row 2: Linda Lee Petty, Joseph Phillips, Adelyn Savage, Pete Coleman, George Speak, Frank Batkins, Gilbert Hume, Carlton Morgan.

Clubs Aid in Creating Expression; Cultivating Friendship

The seriousness of a candle lighting ceremony for the installation of officers was found to be a highlight of the year for the Future Homemakers of America except for minor problems like hot dripping wax. However, this was only one of the many activities in which the F.H.A. participated. Others were the fall district rally held at Denbeigh Recreation Association, demonstrations on such things as shoe make-up, flower arranging, and Christmas decorating, a fashion show for parents, a tea honoring the teachers, and their annual chapter picnic.

With five returning veterans and a negative team which placed second in District Group A competition last year, the Warwick Debate Team was mighty convicing in their resolution that nuclear weapons should be controlled by an international organization. Through "round robin" type competitions the Warwick Debate Team was able to travel to such schools as the University of Richmond and Old Dominion College for meets. Miss Waverly Hundley placed debaters in competition on the basis of their individual point totals, judge's comments, general improvement, and over-all knowledge.

Warwick's Youth For Christ Club, which was a branch of the Peninsula organization, had for one of its programs a speaker from behind the Berlin Wall. Dr. Karlis Leyasmeyer spoke on the subject of " I Survived a Communist Firing Squad." Other activities were the sponsoring of delegates to various conventions such as the Youth For Christ Area Council and the Youth For Christ Southern States Convention.

The Future Nurses Club was very active this year as they received speakers from nursing schools and a special speaker, Mr. Paul W. Hannah, from Washington, D. C., who spoke on Health Careers. Tours of nursing schools and the Medical College of Virginia were also made. For the finishing touch FNC adopted the blue and gold national symbol to show their official representation.

Youth For Christ members are: Row 1: Sandra Karam, Carolyn Grissom, Martin Cacioppo, Cheryl Burnham, Sandra Leedy, Linda Radcliffe. Row 2: Martha Karam, Debbie Hancock, Betty Hamilton, Mickey Rodgers, Jean Rogers, and sponsor, Miss Mahone.

The needy people overseas were carefully looked after at Warwick by the Teen Care Club, who spent their time raising money by carwashes, bakesales, and coat-hanger drives. Also in the way of money raising projects was the sale of Revenge Week buttons enabling the girls to get back at the boys after Twirp Week. The money which the club successfully earned was divided with half of it going to the New York headquarters, and half of it remaining here to help finance prospective projects.

The Amateur Radio Club at Warwick may have been one of the smaller clubs, but its activities were done in a big way. Members were aided in getting their "ham" radio licenses, while they experimented at Christmas with sending messages from the students and faculty to distant friends and relatives. A really interesting task was undertaken by the Radio Club when they tried to put the school radio station, W4WVX, back on the air.

Although teachers were often regarded as "bad news" by students trying to figure out how to get an A, the Future Teachers of America Club's membership was still one of the most plentiful. The club instituted a six weeks honor roll which was posted in the middle hall, and during National Education Week, selected a student of the day, from each class. Visits to Longwood College and student teaching in the local elementary schools were also part of the year's activities. The year closed with its annual banquet at which the new officers were inducted.

Features

At a first glance we see a typical farmer, but one who has excelled. We know that school life is filled with opportunities, but, the question is—"What causes a student to be outstanding and to take such an interest in others?" At a second glance we see Greg Stevens, Ronnie Rogers, and Robert Dunn busy with the Hi-Y food drive, the induction ceremony of outstanding journalistic students into the Quill and Scroll, the AFS "Our Fair Lady" assembly introducing Anne Rodriguez to the student body, and Mr. Caywood presenting Mike Chesson with a letter of commendation for excellent scholastic achievement.

These are the things which make up the outstanding student—enthusiastic support and spontaneous efforts in their special fields of interest.

Enthusiasm, Spirit Characterize Warwick Homecoming

". . . deep graven on each heart . . ."

Homecoming 1964 . . . the tie with York 19-19 . . . Anne Rodriquez, honorary Senior homecoming representative . . . committee chairmen, Carol Lee Barlow and Johnny Atkins . . . bonfires and snake dances . . . the World's Fair assembly with the Warwick and York pavilions . . . shiny new convertibles . . . yellow mums and red roses . . . nine lovely attendants . . . and our queen, Judy Anderson, crowned by co-captain, Arthur Morgan . . . cheerleaders and school spirit . . . our Grenedier Band and bagpipe corps at halftime . . . pep committee signs . . . a last minute touchdown by Vic Kitchen . . . the Homecoming Dance with music by "The Sabres."

This was Homecoming 1964! It was a week-end of color at Warwick. A traditional assembly with a peppy skit was presented to the student body. Its theme concerned a World's Fair. One of the best pavilions was the Pavilion of the Future where students saw waxen figures come surprisingly to life and fondly recollect those "good ole days." The skit was followed by the presentation of the Homecoming Court in long formals of beautiful pastel colors, each girl carrying a bouquet of yellow mums. That night Warwick students flocked to a pep rally held on the football field. While a York dummy was burned in effigy, spirited Farmers did snake dances and yelled "Victory, Victory" and "Are you proud of your school!" The next day was conveniently one with no school. Crowds of people poured into the stadium Friday night, and school spirit was jumping. The Farmer team, however, was served a bit of humiliation as they ended up half time with a score of 13-0. Halftime festivities were still as exciting as ever. Speculation was running high as to who would be chosen queen . . . Faye, Joy, Judy, or Mary Margaret . . . but, when Judy Anderson, the Senior class representative for the past 3 years, was crowned, the cheers were spontaneous and deserving. In the second half of the game, the team made an all-out effort, and with a touchdown in the last minutes, Warwick tied the game and gave everyone a reason to celebrate at the dance. The Social committee's job was well-done, with a beautifully decorated cafeteria, with tremendous music, and with another view of the court. Yes . . . then Homecoming '64 was over.

Eddie to Judy: "If you are crowned queen, who does Arthur kiss—you or me?"

After the presentation the court led off the first dance.

Homecoming committee heads were Carol Lee Barlow and Johnny Atkins.

Flash bulbs, and a wildly cheering crowd announced the magnificence of our queen!

Quill and Scroll Initiates Area Publications Federation

"And then you say—Dick, Dick, Bo Bick, Banana Bana, Fo Fick . . ."

Striving to fulfill the implications of their motto, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make ye free," the members of the Warwick Ruby Altizer Roberts' chapter of Quill and Scroll wore their badge proudly this year. Those who didn't were fined 10c by a money-grubbin' treasurer at every bimonthly meeting. The members of this honorary society had each contributed to the art, business, or editorial department of the school publications, The Warwick, The Plough, and The Earle. Under the supervision of Miss Lois Callahan, the society worked diligently, if spasmodically, on various projects throughout the year.

The main undertaking was the weekly presentation of "We the Young People" over WGH radio. Kay Andreoli and Pam Powell were the co-chairmen of the program and responsible for finding representatives from each local high school to appear on the show. Many Thursdays would find Pam frantically begging Carlton Morgan to appear on "just one more time"—even though he'd been on the program for eleven weeks straight. Most students, however, jumped at the chance to air their opinions in public.

In December a candle lighting initiation ceremony was held for new members during which everyone gaily dripped blue wax on President Barbara Nichol's white gloves. Later in the year, a banquet was held at Vic Zodda's, more students were inducted, and a publications assembly was held. Written in the spring by Mike Chesson and Betty Wall, a Q&S skit managed to incite riots from several quarters, bringing the year to a successful conclusion by having its members tarred and feathered.

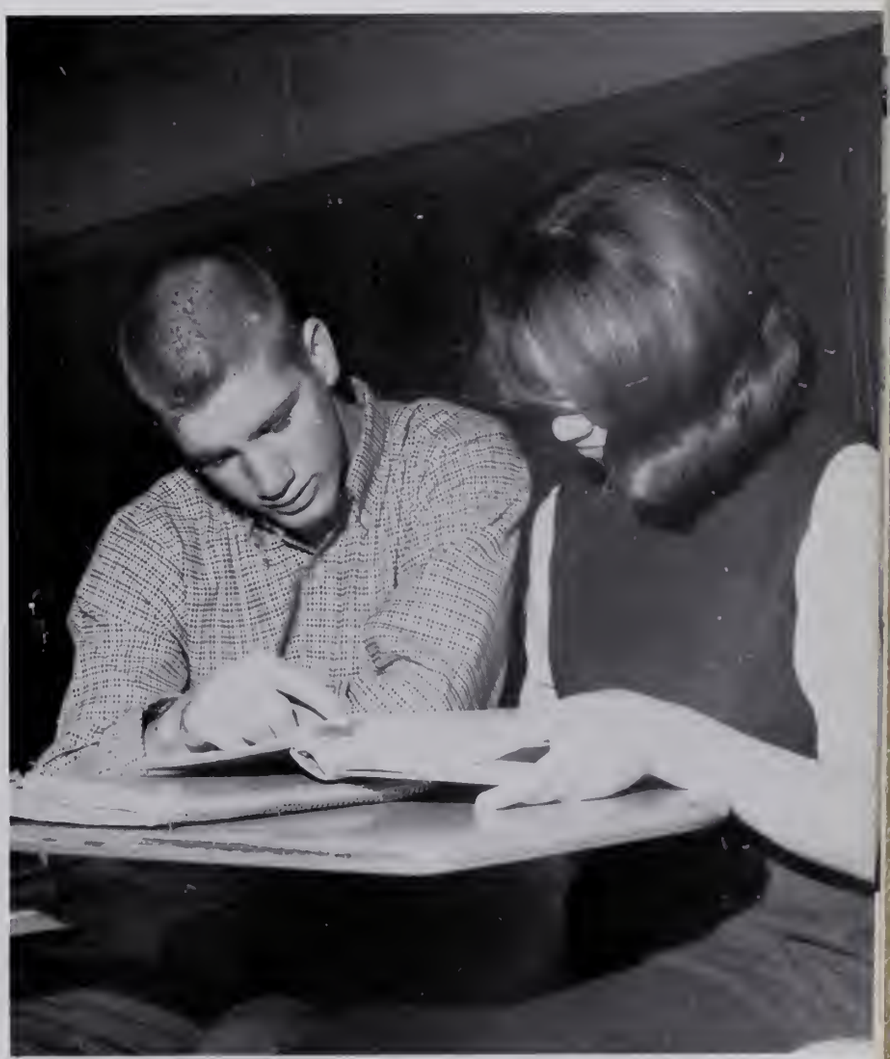
Warwick's chapter of the National Honor Society consisted of twenty students who best represented the high ideals of the society and WHS—these being scholarship, leadership, character, and service. The ratio of boys to girls was three to seventeen, and the boys were thus faced with a sound feminine majority to over rule any ideas they may have had. However, the tables were turned when suggestions were made for a beach party or some other form of recreation, for then the ratio was definitely in the boys' favor. Still, the group did manage to agree on several service projects designed to promote scholarship throughout the school.

A film entitled "College Prospectives" was shown to help under classmen plan for college life, but many "world-weary" seniors also attended. Vickie Dereng served as chairman of a tutoring service which met with several obstacles before becoming a valuable aid to students. The major problem seemed to be a shortage of members to help with certain subjects. As a result, any advanced math student was found helping with Home Ec., while a German expert tutored in French. Some students did manage to receive valuable help, however, thus making the effort worthwhile.

Six brave members of the society participated in competition for the NHS scholarships offered on a nation-wide scale. Their greatest difficulty was in recalling such simple facts as why electrolytic capacitors discharge into the grid bias system or why thermoionic emission occurs most easily in a vacuum. Still, they managed to be excellent representatives for Warwick's honorary group.

The year was climaxed by the annual initiation assembly where juniors, as well as additional seniors were tapped for membership.



Billy Dunn: "Onomatopoeia is when a word sounds like what it means, like kiss. Want me to demonstrate?"

Key Club, Hi-Y Share Spotlight as Male Service Groups

If you happened to notice hay sticking out of shirt pockets or from the top of shoes, you were probably looking at a Key Club member the day after his hay-ride. This was, however, only one of the numerous projects of Warwick's all male service club. With Dennis George serving as president this year, the club was spurred to tremendous efforts. Some of these were assisting with sorting textbooks before school started, collecting for the Olympic Fund during the first football game, sponsoring a school Clean-Up Week in October, and presenting to the entire student body a mock presidential convention. The Key Club's major project was the awarding of a $300.00 Richard T. Yates Memorial Scholarship to a deserving senior. To do this they raised money by "Work Days", where each member worked a full day for $10 which went to Key Club funds, by sponsoring dances, and by having car washes. The year finished up with one of the most looked-forward-to activities—attending the annual Key Club Convention held in Washington, D. C.

The addition of girls to the all boys' Hi-Y, in the way of contestants in the "Miss Hi-Y Pageant," must have sparked this organization to great heights as they monopolized the activities calendar with their dances, assemblies, and projects. Some of these were the sale of maroon and gold pom-poms, the operation of a lost-and-found in the office, and the Christmas drive for needy children. Also included in their year were conferences at Blue Ridge, Portsmouth, and Richmond, and programs with speakers Mayor Hyatt and Keith Casey.

Thespians Stage Fall Production, "Death Takes a Holiday"

If somebody walked up to you and cheerfully said "Break a leg!" your first reaction might have been to inform him that he could "break his own leg," unless, of course, you were a veteran actor and member of Thespians. If this were the case, your reply to the drama slang for "good luck" was probably "thanks a lot," as with a cue from backstage you confidently walked "on stage left" for the fall production of "Death Takes a Holiday" or the spring production of "The Mouse That Roared."

Chapter 394 of the National Thespian Society was made up of Warwick dramatists and stagecrew who participated in many varied activities throughout the year. For proof of their "variation" we recalled the group's attempt at giving a bake sale in December. However, by popular vote it was decided to stick to acting and stagework, even though the funds were raised by their first and last attempt at domestics.

The attendance of many members to the play presented at William and Mary "Le Bourgeois Gentil Homme" was another activity of considerable value for the Thespians.

Money collected from the activities and plays went toward the "Thespian-of-the-Year" award presented in May.

Something new for the incoming Thespians was the formal induction held in assembly. Something old, but even more enjoyable, was the traditional cast party held just about anywhere at just about any time.

Another outing was the visit that several Thespians made to the program "We the Young People", where everything from Wayne Smith's love scenes to ripped sets minutes before curtain time were discussed.

All in all, Thespians considered the year a success, and to prove it, they topped the cake off with a Virginia Beach icing—um-m-m good!

School Stages, Memorable, Important Events for Students

"Attention all students: There will be an assembly this Friday for the purpose of . . ." If there was one thing Warwick never lacked it was assembly programs, concerts, and special events, as the administration and school organizations constantly strived to create interesting programs and obtain worthwhile speakers. Just a few of these "special events" have been captured in pictures for your "second glances."

A Brotherhood Assembly was given where Rabbi Task pointed out the vast work and fellowship which the National Conference of Christians and Jews promotes. There was the pen and ink sketch by Mr. Sheaks which was presented to the school in memory of Gordon Savage who was killed in an automobile accident last summer.

Farmer Day belonged to everyone with the "Farmer Family" and even teachers looking like crosses between hoboes and scare-crows. One musn't forget the crazed atmosphere of the mock-presidential campaign where speeches echoed promises of a "Great Society" or slogans of "In your heart, you know he's right."

Another event well-worth a second glance was the Thespian one-act, "The Open Window," which was prepared for state competition and presented in assembly.

During a Band Assembly ceremonial flags were presented to the bagpipers by Col. Pride, British attache.

There were many more "special events" in '65 which stood out in the minds of Warwick Farmers. Some of these were the Variety Show, the Robert Burns Concert, the Hootenanny, school dances, the faculty tea, awards assembly, pep assemblies, and SCA campaigns . . . the special glances.

AFS Americanizes Anne, Sponsors Spring Carnival

"What does she look like?" "Can she speak any English?" "What does she think of the USA?" "How does she like Warwick?" Poor, but lucky, Anne Rodriguez really must have wanted to hand out pamphlets on herself at times. As this year's AFS or American Field Service sponsored foreign student, Anne was not only Warwick's most interesting student, but was also voted "Friendliest" by the Senior Class, which just goes to show that she was more than eager to answer all the questions handed to her by her 2200 friends. Arriving in Newport News in August from her home, Brussels, Belgium, Anne lived with her American-sister Carol Lee Barlow, president of the AFS. As Warwick's exchange student, Anne was able to attend many conventions automatically, such as the SCA District Convention, SCA State Conference, and the Foreign Student Forum held in Richmond. Everyone wanted to give Anne all that they could to make her year the most memorable of her life. Early in the year the Key Club presented her with an activity ticket book, while the Senior Class gave her a class ring, and the SCA gave her a beautiful sweater for Christmas.

Although Anne was the AFS's biggest joy, they had their share of work, too. Once again members sold bonds toward their financial goal of $1000 for next year. Other projects and activities were an "Our Fair Lady" assembly, a student-faculty basketball game, a dance, and, for the first time, a Spring Carnival in which many school organizations participated with booths. What can we say, except that Warwick's AFS certainly achieved "an open door to understanding and friendship."

Warwick Selects Senior Leaders as

There were many reasons for the selection of Anna Alice Sampselle as an outstanding leader of the Class of '65, and to many her ability to pass Mrs. Bright's Advanced Math class seemed reason enough. Alice also maintained an A average in her other classes which quickly qualified her as a National Honor Society member and earned her a National Merit Letter of Commendation. Also along this line Alice was one of two students from Warwick to participate in an eight week summer program on Aero-Space Science, and Engineering sponsored by the National Science Foundation. Displaying qualities of leadership in school activities, Alice worked as co-chairman of the SCA Cafeteria Committee, which made her a Cabinet and Congress member and acted as co-chairman of the Invitations Committee for the Junior Class and Flower Committee for the Senior Class. In the way of activities she was a member of the FTA and French Club for three years. Another honor which Alice held was serving as an Usher her Junior and Senior years.

Alice was the recipient of early admission status at the College of William and Mary which she plans to attend in the Fall of '65. Her plans for studying include a probable major in math.

The popular advice—that if you want something done, give it to a busy person—seems to have held true with regard to quiet, hard working Richard Graham Wilkinson.

Class committee participation occupied a great deal of time for this busy worker. As a Junior, he participated in various Prom Committees and headed the Invitation group. As a Senior, Ricky spent his time working on Senior Leadership Day, for which he was co-chairman. He also contributed his talents toward the Senior Assembly preparation and the Last Will and Testament. In working with the SCA, this Senior Leader accepted an appointment to the Cabinet as Cafeteria co-chairman.

Key Club membership and hours of devoted time to French Club activities this year were other outlets for Ricky's willing and friendly personality. Probably the most important of Ricky's club activities, however, was the AFS where he worked as secretary his Senior year and doggedly sold bonds. Finishing up his Senior year with honors, Ricky received a National Merit Letter of Commendation and participated in the National Honor Society for which he was tapped his Junior year. Ricky plans to enter the College of William and Mary in the fall of 1965.

Whenever the word "AFS" was mentioned around Warwick High School, one could be relatively sure that the next word mentioned would be Carol Lee Barlow. An outstanding member of her class during her entire high school career, Carol Lee also participated in numerous other activities besides maintaining a better than B average.

Serving as President of the AFS her Senior year, Carol Lee was the lucky individual who played hostess and sister to Warwick's wonderful foreign exchange student, Anne Rodriguez. As an ever-faithful class worker, Carol Lee served as vice-president of her class in her Sophomore and Junior years, and co-chairman of the Senior Assembly and Senior Hootenanny her last year.

With these full time activities, Carol Lee still found time to work with the SCA as Co-chairman of the Homecoming Committee and as a member of the Orientation and Building and Grounds Committees.

Honors were also duly earned by Carol Lee who was inducted into the National Honor Society in the 11th grade and elected its President her Senior year. Along this same line, Carol Lee was a charter member of Keyettes and served as an Usher for two years.

As a Delegate to SCA District Convention, SCA Federation, Foreign Student Forum, and National Conference of Christians and Jews, Carol Lee represented Warwick outside of school just as outstandingly as she did in school.

This list of credits which earned Carol Lee the honor of being named Senior Leader for 1965 could go on indefinitely. School activities were only part of her busy schedule, however, which also included church choir, Methodist Youth Fellowship, volunteer church organist, and Sunday School teacher for a class of 5th graders.

All these portions of Carol Lee's life seemed to be leading her toward a very special goal, as her plans for the future included Madison College and a degree in Elementary Education.

Outstanding School Representatives

"Will Congress please come to order!" was a phrase frequently emitted by presiding SCA President, William Lee Dunn, at the weekly meetings. Serving as president of the Student Co-operative Association his Senior year and vice-president his Junior year was only one aspect of Billy's leadership outlets. Every important convention and workshop was attended by this truly outstanding Senior. Just a few of the many were Boys' State, where Billy was elected Senator of McArthur City, SCA Summer Workshop, Peninsula Federation, and District and State SCA Conventions. The experience and friends Billy gained while representing Warwick enabled him to head WHS capably and wisely.

For excited basketball fans, perhaps Billy Dunn was best known as the tall Farmer cager and co-captain. Four of his high school years were devoted to his endeavors in rebounding and sharp-shooting, both in J.V. and Varsity activity.

Variety was the key word connected with this "Best All Around" fella. Everything from participation in the National Conference of Christians and Jews to maintaining a B+ average contributed to his outstanding record. The emphasis he placed on his studies earned him a place in the National Honor Society and membership in Key Club.

Billy accepted a scholarship from the College of William and Mary to continue his studies with plans for the future including post-graduate work in International Relations.

It could have been a basketball game or a football game or a wrestling match or a baseball game, but regardless of the sport, one could always find Mary Patricia Tull, dressed in a maroon and gold cheerleading uniform, enthusiastically yelling, mouth wide open, "Are You Proud Of Your School?" It was obvious that Mary Pat was. Truly deserving of the title "Best All Around" Mary Pat's many and varied activities ranged from holding the position of Treasurer of the SCA to being an eager participant in the Powderpuff Football game her Junior Year.

Mary Pat was always known by her fellow Farmers for her outspoken and sincere opinions which earned her the chance to serve as a delegate to District SCA, State SCA, Teen Forum, and Federation meetings. Also as a result of her willing participation and excellent representation, Mary Pat was chosen to attend Virginia Girls' State where she ran for Lt. Governor. In class activities Mary Pat served as co-chairman of the Chaporones Committee for the Prom, plus working on decorations.

Maintaining good grades earned her membership in the National Honor Society. A vivacious leader and active citizen, Mary Pat attended the First Presbyterian Church. Her plans for the future include college with a choice between William and Mary or Mary Washington.

The exciting spirit of the football season was sparked by the rugged defensive play of tackle, Frank Hall Coleman. His experience gained over a four year period of J.V. and Varsity football benefited the Farmers tremendously, especially in the glorious '64 season. It even payed off in enabling Frank to obtain the sought after position of Powderpuff Coach. This commendable Senior, possessing brain as well as brawn, earned his title of "Most Popular" by spending the better part of his time at Warwick participating in class activities, in sports, and in maintaining a B average. During his Senior year, Frank served as vice-president of his class and co-chairman of the SCA Leadership Training Committee.

Outside of class and SCA participation, Frank put his football plays to work, as he tackled such offices as president of the Monogram Club and sergeant-at-arms of the Key Club.

Because of Frank's attendance at SCA District, Federation, and Boys' State, where he was elected Senator of his city, his capabilities for leading the Class of '65 to bigger and better things were assured.

Frank's plans for the future included college and perhaps some summer work. While he attended Warwick, he was an active member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church.

Sports

At a first glance we see team members participating in a sport. We know there are many teams which develop good sportsmanship in the boys and girls of Warwick. The question is—"What do these students gain as members of a team participating in a particular sport?" At a second glance we see the school spirit and crazed enthusiasm of the football squad as they carry Coach Snow to the showers after a 16-6 verdict against the "once" undefeated Typhoons, a different side to athletics as the females prove their skill in field hockey, a mighty effort by Mike Serig to succeed in the difficult pole vault, J. D. Stainback using a cradle wrestling technique to pin his Deep Creek opponent, a tremendous surge of power displayed by George Baine as he heaves the heavy shot put, a jump in basketball which suggests ballet, and lastly, a concentration on Warwick strategy seen in the pensive faces of Wally McCully, Frank Coleman, Chris Lewis, and Greg Youens.

This is what members of a team gain by participation in sports—the spirit that comes from a supreme effort and the realization that team work is the key to victory.

Farmers Take Wind Out of Typhoons; Stomp Crabbers

"This will be the year!" we cried, and it was! The Warwick Varsity football team made a first class effort and although the record didn't show a great many wins, it likewise didn't show the importance of the games won. At the beginning of the season, Warwick experienced some sharp disappointments with losses to Oscar Smith, Maury, and Kecoughtan. In the Oscar Smith game, Warwick had two chances to score with penetrations to the Smith 10 yard line, but was unable to break through their tough defense.

In our next two losses, Warwick was statistically on top, but failed to score the needed points. In the Maury game, the Farmers had the ball on the Maury one yard line with 1:14 left, but counldn't put it across due to a mix-up in the backfield. WHS gained 234 yards in the air in the battle with Kecoughtan and held the Warriors to 88 yards on offense, but again were unable to come out on top in scoring, losing by three points.

In the next two games, Warwick surged ahead with wins of 7-0 and 12-6 over Granby and Norview, respectively. In the Granby game, quarterback Ranny Blanchard connected on a 26 yard pass to Stu Garrett for the single touchdown. Against the Norview Pilots the Farmers pulled off a fine victory. With Blanchard's pass completions amounting to 111 yards and Morgan's recovery of Norview fumbles, the Maroon and Gold defeated Norview for the first time since 1957.

The next week Warwick suffered its fourth and worst defeat at the hands of the Great Bridge Wildcats with a score of 27-6. Although Warwick threw 44 passes, we were unable to complete enough to make up for their strong running game.

"We beat Newport News!" The Farmers defeated unbeaten Newport News 16-6. A real team effort was shown, but particularly in the limelight were Ranny Blanchard, Marty Bonnett, and Stu Garrett who executed a razzle-dazzle play resulting in a touchdown, and Vic Kitchen, whose 36 yard field goal gave the Farmers three points.

Don Horton reflects that extra effort that defeated Hampton as he scores on a pass from Bonnett.

Victory, but also defeat . . .

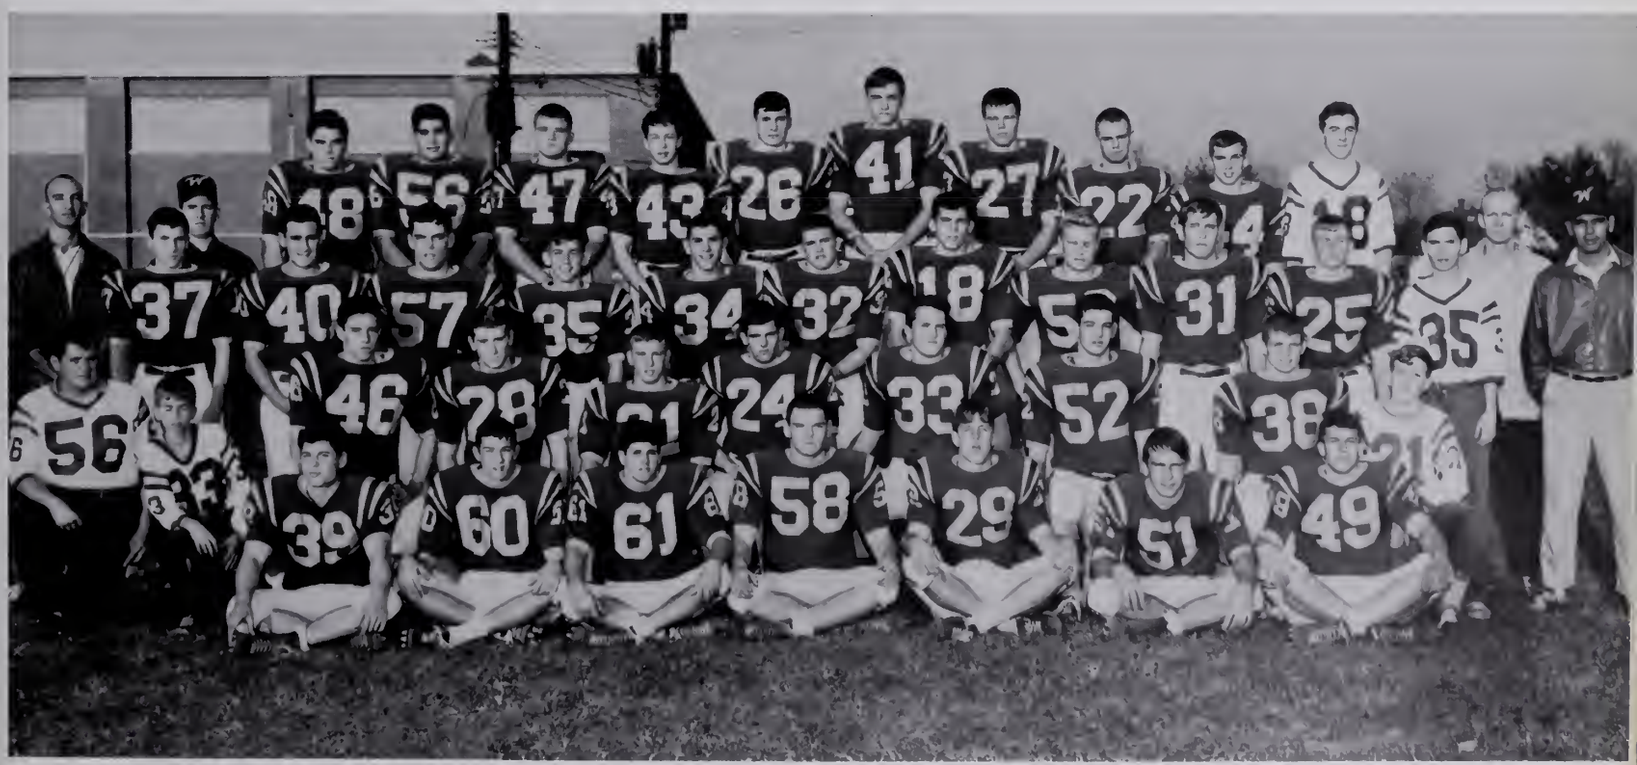
Vic Kitchen gains valuable yardage against Kecoughtan.

1964 Snowmen were: Row 1—J. D. Stainback, Phil Kinney, Wally McCulley, Art Morgan, Co-captain, Don Horton, Co-captain, Ken Cooke, Frank Batkins. Row 2—Charles Carter, manager, Ronnie Tice, manager, Ranny Blanchard, Ed Parsons, Billy Mitchell, Vic Kitchen, Gene Matthews, Frank Coleman, Billy Pittman, Norman Hamilton, manager. Row 3: Gregg Youens, Don Wiseman, Mike Carmean, Wade Heath, John Samos, Randy Hutchinson, Marty Bonnett, Bobby Pelletier, Lou Cartin, Ray Smith, Randy Willard, manager, Coach Sonny Quesenberry—Back Coach, Coach Jim Snow—Head Coach. Row 4: Tom Secules—Back Coach, Jeff Applegate—Line Coach, Pat Carmean, Christopher Louis, Claude Branch, Rick Brown, Stu Garrett, Steve Spriggs, Gene Hutchens, Jimmy Warren, Wayne Heath, Pete Gwaltney, manager.



In Warwick's explosive win over Hampton, Ranny Blanchard and ends Stu Garrett and Don Horton did most of the damage, moving the Crabbers out of contention for the Eastern District title. Horton blocked a Hampton kick, scooped up the ball and plowed 42 yards for a touchdown. Fans were brought to their feet when J. D. Stainback seemed to high jump the Hampton line to gain the one yard necessary for another touchdown. Also scoring was Vic Kitchen who received a pass from Blanchard to complete a 44 yard surprise pattern. In the last quarter, the Farmers led by the large margin of 39 to 14 before putting in some of the inexperienced players. This was only the second time in the last decade that Warwick has defeated both Newport News and Hampton in one season.

Trying for the first winning season since 1961, the Farmers dropped a 21-7 verdict to arch-rival Ferguson despite the school spirit of Farmer Day and the newspaper's predictions. Leading 7-0 going into the second half, the Farmers lost the game on two off side penalties and an intercepted pass which was returned for a touchdown.

Some of the seniors who played their last games this year were co-captains Don Horton and Art Morgan, Ranny Blanchard, top rated peninsula passer, J. D. Stainback, Billy Mitchell, Wally McCulley, Billy Pittman, Ken Cooke, Phil Kinney, Vic Kitchen, our leading scorer, Frank Batkins, and Eddie Parsons. Although the loss of these boys will leave a gap in the Farmer line, Coach Snow expects to see plenty of action with returning players and members from the undefeated J.V. team.

Dunn, Butler Pace Varsity Farmers to Winning Season

"Jump Barker, jump a little higher . . ." and the first game of the 1964-65 Varsity Basketball season was off to a well-earned win over the Suffolk Raiders. Outstanding in this first win was Billy Dunn, with 21 points.

The Farmers' next win was over Virginia Beach due to the combination of tough defense and tremendous offense. Marty Bonnet's efforts in the 2½ quarters he played earned him 14 points and did much toward the Warwick decision.

Warwick's next two games were losses, first to Maury and second to Kecoughtan, where a late practice the night before seemed to stall the Farmers' pep.

Warwick's next win was over the Mariners. With a slim half-time lead, the Farmers had to turn out a real effort in the second half. However, with Danny Barker's rebounding and the scoring efforts of Tommy Butler, the fighting Farmers came out on top.

Warwick's sixth game, although a loss, was one Farmer fans will never forget. In probably the most exciting game of the year, the Farmer team as a whole earned the credit for the "almost" win, after a tense, excitement-filled overtime.

The next game was a victory over the York Falcons with Dunn and Butler sharing the top scoring efforts.

This was followed by an action-packed battle against Princess Anne which ended with the Cavaliers on top by one point.

Continuing their jinx over the Mariners, Warwick chalked up another win over Ferguson. The most outstanding effort came from David Guilliams who tallied 18 points.

The Farmers next hosted state champions Newport News, but met with defeat.

With a strong comeback, Warwick defeated its next three opponents. First to fall was Kecoughtan in a revenge filled battle led by David Guilliams. Then, led by sharp-shooting Billy Dunn (21) and rebounding Danny Barker (13), the Farmers drove in for a victory over Oscar Smith. The third consecutive win was likewise Warwick's seventh straight over Ferguson with Barker leading.

Lou Cartin, Marty Bonnett, Phillip Greenbaum, Tommy Butler, Danny Barker, Henry Saddler, Robert Jackson, Billy Dunn, David Gwilliams, C. M. Pritchard, Bob Kretz were this year's tall trottin cagers.

Farmers Finish Season With Win Over Warriors

The Farmers then met defeat at the hands of the Hampton Crabbers, but not before they were given a severe scare by Dunn, who outscored everyone with his 22 points and numerous rebounds. Then, despite the efforts of Kretz and Dunn, the Farmers lost to Great Bridge.

Warwick's next win over the Falcons was a close one. Overcoming York hero Ray Gordon's 28 points, Warwick netted a victory.

The next two games ended the season in a thrill-filled whirl of tremendous basketball playing. The first of these was Warwick's best effort of the year against Newport News' home winning streak of 97 games. Sparked by Tommy Butler's 26 points, the Farmers led the Typhoons at halftime. However, the combination of too many fouls and shooting from too far out gave the Typhoons a small advantage which they stretched to a big victory.

The Farmers' last game was another thriller, but no one could have guessed the outcome from the crazy "slow-down" ball game Kecoughtan tossed the Farmers in the first half. This resulted in a 31-31 tie as the last buzzer sounded. The first overtime was nerve-wracking as Danny Barker barely tied the game up at 35-35 for a second overtime. Again Barker scored clinching the game 43-39.

And so the basketball season ended with 10 wins and 8 losses. Tommy Butler and Billy Dunn as Farmer Co-captains lived up to their responsibilities by claiming season averages of better than thirteen points per game. David Guilliams and Danny Barker added both rebounding and scoring ability while sophomore Bob Kretz rounded out the starting five. Coached by Wilbur Thompson, this tough squad made smooth floor-play their key words for the season. The boys attributed much of their success to the reserves who, throughout the long hours of practice, actually molded the first team and forced them to play better or lose their positions.

Seeded 7th in the Eastern District, the Farmer cagers participated in the Eastern District tournament beating Craddock, but losing out to the eventual tournament winner, Maury.

Bob Kretz adds the finesse to a foul shot at the Hampton game.

Tennis Team Faces Season With Skill, Determination

With the unfortunate death of the Genetics class' fruit flies, Mr. Kennedy turned his patient efforts toward the tennis team as Warwick's coach. With a turnout of approximately fifteen boys in March for the beginning of practice, most of the afternoons were spent exercising and in basic fundamental review. Serving, backhand, and smooth volleying were worked on with a determination that often resulted in sore muscles. Elimination for the varsity team was held by means of an intramural tournament where every boy played a match against every other boy for a one through fifteen rating. The top seven tennis players were Mike Taylor, Nabeel Al Salaam, Buddy Haley, Tommy Tucker, John Allen, Bobby Swain, and Chuck Weiss. These seven boys competed among themselves for the final five places. This year's team had a strong advantage when they played their matches with peninsula schools due to the fact that the tennis team lost only two seniors from last year and was given a head start with the return of four experienced tennis whizzes.

Kinney Paces Thinclads, Places Second in State Hurdles

Most high school students thought that during September there was only one sport in session, and that was football. But, contrary to popular belief, there was another sport. Cross Country Track was run during these cold wintry days for those athletes who specialized in distance running. Wayne Futrell, Tommy Morris, and Richard Willis were outstanding this season with Tommy Morris placing 5th in the state.

After football was over, Indoor Track started. One of the best Warwick meets of this season was with Kecoughtan whom the Farmer thinclads defeated 57-43. Regardless of the wet track, Warwick spirit was not dampened, as Phil Kinney took 1st place in the high hurdles, low hurdles, and 60 yard dash, Wally McCully won the 500 yard event, and Stu Smith rated 2nd in the high hurdles, 2nd in the low hurdles, and 3rd in the 60 yard dash. Glen Reeves won the shot put, and Tommy Morris came in 2nd in the mile competition, and finally Wayne Futrell won the 800 with an exceptional time of 2 min. 10 3/10 sec.

Warwick attended the Virginia State Indoor meet held at the V.M.I. field house, Lexington, Virginia. Unfortunately the 880 relay team was disqualified for crossing the zone marks during a hand off of the baton; however, Senior hurdler Phil Kinney came in 2nd in the state in high hurdles (7.7) and low hurdles (7.3).

Then, after basketball was over and around the same time as baseball began, we had the Outdoor Track season. This was the highlight of the track season, its difference from Indoor being that the sprints were lengthened—60 yards to 100 yards, high hurdles up to 120, and low up to 180.

With the experienced coaching of Jim Hubbard, Sonny Quesenberry, and Tom Secules, training for the various track events was more than expert. The Outdoor season also proved to be a successful one with many highly competitive meets throughout the Spring.

Witness Winning Season From Varsity Baseball Team

Sports action this year seemed to be marked by the fact that few teams lost players from '64 graduation, and the Varsity Baseball Team was no exception. Losing only two of their experienced boys, the team held positive hopes of bettering their '64 record of 15 wins and 5 losses which earned them a third place in the Eastern District last year. Hitting and pitching were the team's two strong points, with the pitching supplied by Ranny Blanchard, Tommy Butler, and Larry Ammons. The infield was made solid by Billy Mitchell, Vic Kitchen, Art Morgan, Marty Bonnett, and Larry Gore. The outfield found Stu Garrett, Don Horton, Lou Cartin, Jerry Stainback, and Ranny Blanchard grabbing down the long high ones, while the catching was in the capable hands of Don Griffith and Mike Carmean.

With this line-up of tough ball players, Warwick couldn't be stopped. Stu Garrett was relied on to make his usual great catches in centerfield, while Billy Mitchell as shortstop and Vic Kitchen at second base pulled Warwick out of a few jams with their quick-thinking, double plays. Nor were many players given the chance to steal base as Griffith's eyes stayed peeled to the slightest movement. But then not many men made it to base to begin with thanks to Ranny Blanchard's fast ball. On March 27 in the opening game of the season, the Farmers hosted Gloucester High School.

The Farmer sluggers, coached by Jim Snow, used their hustle and experience to record another winning season for '65 . . . coming out on top of all the Farmer teams.

Morgan Wins District Title, Takes Second in State Match

"Go Arthur Morgan!" and he did all the way to second place in the State Wrestling Tournament. With a 19-1 record the Warwick Wrestling team's "greatest" grappler, often referred to as a "thinking man's wrestler" led the small and inexperienced Farmers' season. Troubles seemed to hound the wrestlers from the very start as four experienced players did not come out this year, Jimmy Speilberger was lost to a "cauliflower ear," and two weight classes went without defenders until the end of the season. As a result the rough season ended with a 1-11-1 record, still an improvement over last year. Co-captains Arthur Morgan and Jerry Stainback along with Randy Lucas finished with the best records of 19-1, 14-4-1, and 15-5-1 respectively.

"Improvement" was the key word at the end of the season, though, as Coach Hasinger's grapplers grabbed 3rd place at the Central Regional Wrestling Tournament. Proud titles of champion were won by Claudie Branch in the 165 lb.-class and Arthur Morgan in the Heavyweight. Three other places were captured by Warwick wrestlers as Randy Hutchinson and Randy Lucas finished second and Jerry Stainback finished third. All five of these boys went to the Virginia State Wrestling Tournament in February.

Here Arthur Morgan, 3rd place winner last year, was seeded second, but faced the same returning wrestlers, so that upping his place to 2nd this year was a big feat. Although the scoreboard lists depressing figures it is interesting to note that in 7 matches, Warwick could have come out in the winning column if only one boy had pinned his man. A frustrating season, but one in which experience was the major addition, gave hope to next year's team as only three seniors were lost through graduation.

Arthur Morgan strains to turn an opponent.

Varsity Pepsters Spark Enthusiasm, School Spirit

"Pass the lemon, quick! I'm number 12 and number 11 is going in now!" This was one cry heard as the clusters of girls moved anxiously toward the door, awaiting their turn at try-outs. Late that night, after long hours of contemplating everything from victory to suicide, the chosen "nine" were informed that they were to be the '64-'65 Varsity Cheerleading squad. Through the summer, under the able leadership of "Captain Mac," they practiced twice a week encountering everything from apple-throwing battles with neighboring youngsters to pure hard work. Practices improved —not to mention skill in apple-throwing—and in August the 4 Senior and 5 Junior girls who composed the squad attended the Varsity Review in Portsmouth where cheers were exchanged.

Excitement mounted as the pepsters greeted new Farmers on Orientation Day. Maybe there were a few "goofs" in the performance, but a few laughs quickly put the students at ease. September 11 . . . the big day! The pep assembly was a great success and school spirit high for the first football game.

The season was one of pleasant surprises with the defeat of Newport News and Hampton in football and also one of unpredictable fun and mishaps for the cheerers, including cheerleader "Farmer Jimmy."

Straw hats, plaid shirts, and blue jeans piled into the auditorium on rainy Farmer Day for a crowded but spirited assembly. Two more pep assemblies were held during the year—one during football season and one in the gym for the Newport News basketball game—as well as numerous outdoor pep rallies.

Excitement . . . fun . . . worry . . . tears . . . laughter . . . trips to away games . . . Shoney's and Burger Chief's . . . a pajama party . . . pictures . . . promoting school spirit . . . were each a real part of the experiences of the '64-'65 Varsity Cheering Squad.

Stanley, Rowe Spark Golf Team in Games

"Fore!" "Look out ahead!" or just plain "Get outta the way!" because the Warwick High School golf team, coached by Wilbur Thompson, was coming through. Headed by two returning members of the '64 team, Harvey Rowe and Craig Stanley, the golf team looked forward to a strong season. These two boys gained valuable experience playing area schools last year, but the small detail of no place to practice hindered their efforts in the '64 season. However, this year the James River Country Club consented to donate their facilities and time to the players so that they could better represent Warwick High. High hopes were held that this good luck would help the Golf Team to stand out and possibly place in the district tournaments in Norfolk.

Girls Prove Skill, Agility, Fitness in Athletics

Athletics put on a different "shape" when the Girls' Recreation Association "went to town" to prove that the feminine section of Warwick High School was just as co-ordinated as the domineering masculine side.

If bruised shins and broken ankles in the "field" of field hockey were not proof enough of skill, the girls did their job with wins against such schools as Ferguson, Newport News, and Woodrow Wilson. This year girls were selected to play on either the advanced or beginners team rather than teams representing each grade as in past years.

Basketball and volleyball were also entered into as favorite team sports, both intramural and inter-school. Teams in these sports were divided by grade level.

To many girls the towering uneven parallel bars were a cause for knocking knees and apprehensive glances. Gymnastics being a major part of GRA activities this year, however, more than thirty girls overcame these fears and worked on perfecting their abilities on this contraption. But there were still those chickens who just couldn't seem to master that one-armed, double-flip, triple-turn "thing." Maybe if one could have used two hands . . .

Gymnastic Workouts Create Skill, Grace, Poise

Hope Tatum fights for the ball in an exciting game against Hampton Roads.

Skillful demonstrations were given at various times during the year, once to the PTA and once to a group of parents and friends. Finally a long anticipated date rolled around—April 3rd. A group of nervous but limber advanced gymnastic students traveled to Old Dominion College to participate in a meet with girls from all over the state. Such competitions as tumbling, balance beam, the horse, and uneven parallels were challenged by Warwick GRA participants.

With the arrival of Spring and, naturally, Spring Fever, many Warwick girls turned up for the out-of-doors sports. Track was a favorite spring sport as GRA girls competed in meets with peninsula teams. Other sports readily participated in were softball, archery, and tennis. GRA entered girls in state archery tournaments and local tennis competition.

In the latter part of spring an awards picnic was held to present the awards to qualifying girls and to announce the GRA sports leaders and officers for next year. Many certificates, pins, letters, and stars were presented to over 500 girls who had earned them by their daily participation. Under Terry Collins' leadership as president and the ever-willing and patient sponsors. Miss McJunkin, Miss Verzaal, Miss Stewart, and Miss Petty, 1964-65 did prove the ability of female athletes and it would be far from the truth to say that any male disputed the excellence of their "shape."

Little Farmers Harvest Six Wins, Defeat All Foes

"The first undefeated team at WHS!" This was the title given to the ferocious Junior Varsity football squad. The season, however, was, by no means, an easy one, for the J.V.'s faced some rugged competition from Newport News and Hampton.

One vital factor which contributed to the J.V. success was the return of many experienced players such as David Hickman, quarterback; John Stainback, halfback; Mark Sadler, guard; Richard Zeitz, guard; Jack Howard, end; Tommy Wilson, end; and Wayne Javis, fullback.

In the Newport News game, a real work-out for defense, the Farmers came from behind, with the score in the Typhoon's favor 6-0, and made a touchdown on a pass from David Hickman which was gained from Howard's kick.

The team seemed to be in agreement, however, that the Hampton game was their best effort. Again coming from behind with a score in favor of Hampton, 13-6 in the third quarter, the J.V. Farmers scored two touchdowns and made an extra point with a smooth kick to beat the little Crabbers 19-13.

Finally, succeeding where the Varsity failed, the mighty J.V.'s played a shut-out game against rival, Ferguson, ending the game with the biggest lead of their season, 33-0. The game was a prime example of the J.V.'s strong aggressive defense and explosive power.

Team Combines Determination With Hustling Spirit to Win

"Here we're gonna win this game—here we're gonna really fight!" And the J.V. basketball team did win that game. As a matter of fact, they won 11 games out of 18, a vast improvement over last year's record of 9 wins and 9 losses.

Coached by Jeff Applegate, the relatively "short" and "inexperienced" J.V.'s made HUSTLE their number-one play. Losing seven of last year's J.V. cagers, the team did some drastic regrouping and came up with a winning team. Wayne Javins, a sophomore and the only returning J.V. player, ripped the nets for a twelve point average. Other fine performances were contributed by center and top rebounder, David Hickman, by determined Haden Gregg, by quick-thinking Mike Judkins, and by the teamwork of Ray Smith, Ford Snow, and Harvey Rowe. Other members who frequently saw action were reserves Steve Burnett, Darius Turner, Dallas Pruitt, Charles Connell, Pete Hazelwood, Tommy Wilson, and Gregory Pritchard.

Three victories out of three encounters over neighboring "Fergy" did much to boost the morale of Warwick's young cagers. Perhaps the best game of all, though, according to the J.V. Farmers, was the victory over much stronger, taller, and more experienced Princess Anne by the fan-screaming score of 54-50. This game was also the only game of the season which broke the "if the J.V.'s win, the Varsity wins too" streak.

With a great season over, the one final victory was left to a few fortunate J.V.'s. This was the exciting chance to move up to Varsity for the tournament games. The three lucky J.V.'s were Wayne Javins, David Hickman, and Haden Gregg.

Steady Improvement Marks Jayvee Track Season

Although many of the members of the young J.V. track team couldn't quite remember their names when it came time to receive letters and awards, they never forgot the fighting spirit of the Farmer thinclads and the understanding guidance which Coach Hubbard patiently produced.

In the fall of 1964 Warwick's J.V. Cross Country team recorded a dual meet score of 2 wins and 2 losses. Thorpe Junior High met with defeat as the Warwick thinclads recorded a 35-27 victory. Practices were long and steady, but J.V. legs, although steady, weren't quite long enough to insure wins over Ferguson and Hampton, the next two rivals. The Kecoughtan meet was probably the most exciting of the season and ended in a 29-28 score as the little Farmers emerged victorious over the previously unbeaten Warriors.

The indoor Season was one of great improvement for the J.V.'s as they competed in shortened versions of the same events that they would experience in Outdoor Track. Great things were hoped of David Bellinger who during the Indoor season jumped 5'8".

As warm weather approached, the Spring Outdoor team, which was composed mainly of Freshman boys, was prepared for a hard-working season. The weightmen of the team were led by George Bane and Pat Carmean, both hefty Sophomores, who were quite capable of throwing the heavy discus and shot-put. Boosting the Farmers in the high jump were Dale Bateman, Mike Pruitt, and David Bellinger.

Sparked by Stuart Smith on the high and low hurdles, sprints, and broad jump, followed up by outstanding sprinter Gregg Parks, led by Tommy Everett with his sprinting and broad jumping, and helped out by Wayne Hart in the shot-put, the J.V.'s were promised a good season. The 880 and 2 mile running events, requiring great speed and agility, were paced by distancemen Larry Knight and Billy Smith. All this talent made its impression, too, as many of the J.V.'s found they had earned themselves varsity status.

In practice Ray Smith shows Mike Judkins the consequences of an unsuccessful squeeze play.

Speed, Defense Form Keys To JV Baseball Victories

Strength, speed, hitting power, pitching prowess, and determination were only a few of the adjectives used to describe the J.V. Baseball team this year. Their efforts resulted in a fine winning season with talented displays from pitcher David Hickman, slugger Ray Smith, and speedy Mike Judkins.

Coached by Jeff Applegate and blessed by the return of eight of last year's first nine, the J.V. team couldn't lose. Among the returning were pitchers, David Hickman, Billy Hurst, and Haden Gregg, who posted records of 7-0, 4-0, and 4-1, respectively, for the previous season. Also strong returning players were infielders Mike Judkins, John Steinback, and Wayne Javins, while outfielder Doug Wrenn, and catcher Ray Smith more than performed their duties.

According to most of the boys, speed and defense were the team's two strong points. With Mike Judkins and John Steinback burning the bases, the opposition had their hands full when local J.V. teams from Ferguson, Newport News, and Hampton were challenged.

Hitting also played an important role in J.V. strategy as team members Ray Smith, batting .400 last year, Judkins, Steinback, Javins, and Wrenn knocked holes in their rivals' defense.

High hopes were held that Warwick's J.V. with their strong array of talent would better their 15-1 record of '64 in the hopeful '65 season.

Eighth, Ninth Basketball Team Displays Power

Thirteen wins and only five losses marked the season for the defensive minded Warwick eighth and ninth grade basketball team. Coached by Jerry Turley, the team practiced hard to shape up their squad for the demanding schedule. This stress on teamwork and hustle, with just enough sparkling determination to win, paid off in well-earned and doubly appreciated victories over Newport News twice, and Ferguson three times.

The sharp shooting of Bobby Gore, Mike Plott, and Sammy Mayo along with the consistently accurate "pogo-stick" rebounding of Jack Howard and Mike Klarer proved to be the deciding factors in the Farmer eighth-ninth grade decisions. One of their best games was against Jefferson Davis. Combining both a determined defense and a booming offense the little Farmers made a big effort, but were forced to a defeat by the slim margin of 41-39.

Little Sisters Boost Jay-Vee Teams With Spirited Cheers

"No, no, no! It's de-ce-meenie!"

One might wonder, how in the world this "word" could have any connection with the '64-'65 Junior Varsity Cheering Squad. With the many and varied cheers introduced to the student body this year, anything was to be expected! Along with actual cheering ability, the five juniors and four sophomores who composed the squad had to be bilingual in order to fulfill their cheering duties.

Probably the greatest honor given to these enthusiastic pepsters was that of cheering for Warwick's undefeated J.V. football team, and the little "Farmers' " basketball team who also displayed great promise, ending the season with an impressive scoreboard.

Throughout both seasons, the peppy junior cheerers could be seen proudly yelling and jumping with a fine display of maroon, gold, and white. Each girl did her share (and sometimes more!) to arouse the spectators' support for their team.

Many new cheers and dances were added to the collection of old "Farmer" yells by this vibrant group. Miss Harriet Petty, a former WHS cheerleader herself, sponsored the girls and added much to their knowledge and enjoyment in the field of lung-bursting and ankle-breaking (that's cheerleading!).

Without a doubt, this rope-jumping, gay squad of cheerers fulfilled their job and left an indelible mark on Warwick High School.

"Oops, wrong way!"

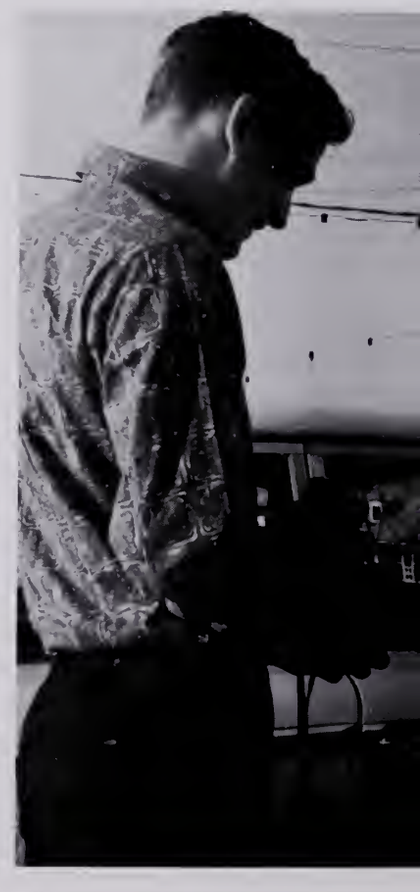
Middle right: Sandy P. and Sandi B.: "Yabba Dabba Doo!"

Bottom right: Out of the mouths of Babes?



Advertisements

At a first glance we see a patron advertising. We know he's part of our growing community. The question is—"How vital a part is he?"

At a second glance we see Mr. Paine of Bowditch Ford being harassed for an ad by Faye Dickinson and Janet Burgess, members of the advertising staff discussing sales techniques before setting out to capture their prey, Karen Clark helping her pooch, Baron Dawgwood Von Fritz, sign his patron ad, Linda Fullerton filling in the month's sale of ads on the goal chart, and David Klich getting Universal Auto's picture for their ad.

This is how vital our community's advertisers are—they give the Warwick staff their support for an annual which has earned their respect.

WHS Recognizes Richards, Tankard for Special Service

During the '64-'65 school year a tall, dignified gentleman could be seen strolling down the corridors of Warwick with a reminiscent smile on his face. He observed the everyday procedures as though he understood or had experienced these occurrences many times before. For Mr. George G. Richards Jr., his duties as principal of WHS were over, but his memories and memory remained. A close bond had formed between Mr. Richards and the Class of '65 in the three years of his management, and in this yearbook is extended sincere gratitude from the student body of Warwick High and a special thanks from the graduating Seniors.

The bustling crowd, pulsating with the excitement of the football season stopped its crazed yelling as an injury to a member of the team was noticed. Immediately Dr. J. Will Tankard was on the field administering the necessary first aid. At every game during the glorious '64 season, the faithful doctor was seen adding endless encouragement and promoting the true spirit of sportsmanship. The annual staff of Warwick High, by this special recognition to a tireless worker, expresses gratitude to a fine citizen, remembered by the entire student body.

Dr. Tankard looks after his boys.

"Make new friends, but keep the old; one is silver, the other gold." Mr. John Caywood and Mr. George Richards.

The Warwick Staff Extends Its Sincere Appreciation

To Max Hertweck for his time and assistance in organizing our photography department.

To Jim Livengood for the use of his camera.

To Dottie Eller, Roger Crone, Linda Taylor, and Sis Thompson for their assistance in selling ads.

To Mr. John Caywood for his understanding and co-operation.

To Pete Peterson of Taylor Publishing Company for his technical assistance and loving care.

To Dr. Fred Thompson for the use of his office and equipment.

To the New Market Health Center and the War Memorial Museum for the use of their premises.

To Exotic Aquarium and Skateland for the use of the premises.

To Mr. Edgar Ball for his patience and suffering.

To Warwick Day Nursery for the use of their Choo-Choo Train.

To the coaching staff for their co-operation in picture taking.

To Mr. Karl Phillips for individual pictures.

To the faculty for their patience and co-operation, for allowing us to come into their classrooms, and for aiding with department copy.

To Penny Howell for her patience and kind help.

To Mrs. Lucille Leviner and the office staff for their assistance.

To Melvin Reynolds for his assistance in typing and with senior pictures.

To Linda Russell, Betty Jo Suddith, and Alice Sampselle for their typing assistance.

To Dennis George, Gayle Thomas, and Frank Coleman for their typing assistance.

To our advertisers and patrons for their support.

To John Ragsdale for snapping our good-bye picture.

To Miss Lois Callahan for her support.
